23 DROWN AS MISSISSIPPI RIVER BOAT CAPSIZES

People Prominent In South's Engineering Circles Die On Pleasure Jaunt

WASHINGTON, May 9.—An investigation of the circumstances surrounding the capsizing and sinking of the steamer Norman in the Mississippi river, south of Memphis, will be made immediately by the war department, it was announced today.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 9.—Twenty-three persons, seventeen passengers and six negro members of the crew of the government river steamer Norman, were drowned in the sinking of the vessel here late Friday, it was disclosed today, after an all-night search for survivors and a careful checking of the figures.

Among the passengers were some of the most prominent in engineering circles of the south, including Paul H. Norcross, former president of the Chamber of Commerce in Atlanta and a widely known engineering authority.

The survivors of the ill-fated vessel number forty, according to the check list of investigators and members of the rescue party.

Police and engineers attending the Mid-South Association of Engineers announced today that no hope remained for the missing members of their party and predicted that their bodies would be found when divers reached the vessel on the river bottom.

Trapped on Boat

Shortly after dawn this morning professional divers started down into the water. Fifty-five feet beneath the surface lies the Norman. There, according to police, lie the entrapped bodies of most of the victims of the river tragedy.

The disaster occurred at Coahoma, seventeen miles below Memphis.

PICKED POSSE ON WATCH FOR PAIR

Man Hunters Vow To Bring Back Tanko And Hall 'Dead Or Alive'

SACRAMENTO, May 9.—Scores of picked men today took up outpost duty in the mountain wilds near Colfax, prepared to "shoot to kill" in the event of the appearance of Tanko and Hall, the escaped murderers. Posse leaders believe the men in hiding near Colfax and may be forced from their retreat by hunger.

Roaming posesses of men are still searching the hills for the pair, a constant search being maintained in Nevada and Placer counties.

"We will not return until we get them dead or alive," was the message received here from one posse.

Women Vote To Work for Peace League

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Without a dissenting vote, the International Council of Women passed a resolution today pledging all its members, comprising representatives of thirty-eight nations, to work toward inclusion of all the nations of the world in the League of Nations.

Contrary to expectations, not one of the ten American delegates raised a dissenting voice, although representatives of American women's patriotic organizations made ineffectual efforts to swing several delegates into active opposition.

The German delegates did not vote. They chose instead, to issue a statement giving general endorsement to the resolution, but setting forth that for physical reasons—Germany not having approved the League covenant—they preferred not to vote.

WORLD PEACE IS PLEA OF COOLIDGE

President Tells Audience At Oratorical Tests World Is America's Field

WASHINGTON, May 9.—America's moral horizon embraces not only herself alone but the whole world, in President Coolidge's opinion.

Addressing a distinguished audience gathered to hear the final orations in a national school oratorical contest, the president said he conceived it to be the duty of the United States not only to look after American well-being, but also to contribute to the organization of all nations toward universal peace.

"The same humanity that has been able to erect the rule of law and liberty in the scale of great nations, will at last find institutions by which to place international relations in the same sure foundations," he said.

Robert E. Sessions, 15, of Birmingham, Ala., won the oratorical contest, with Eugene F. McElmeel of Los Angeles, second, and Max Krolott, Sioux City, Iowa, third.

King George Officially Opens Wembley Show

WEMBLEY, Eng., May 9.—With 90,000 spectators present, twenty-one cannon booming a salute and nine airplanes humming overhead, King George today opened the Wembley exposition. The occasion marked the fifteenth anniversary of King George's proclamation as king. The exposition, corresponding to a world's fair, began its second period, it having been opened last year. Two hours before the gates were opened at 10 o'clock crowds lined up to greet the king. Rain fell while King George was making his address of welcome.

ASKS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE ON FRENCH FINANCES

Premier Painleve To Test Government's Strength In Chamber Tuesday

By FRANK E. MASON For International News Service.

PARIS, May 9.—The new French government, under Premier Paul Painleve, will test its political strength when the cabinet will ask the Chamber of Deputies Tuesday to give it a vote of confidence on a plan which Finance Minister Caillaux will present to the chamber to solve France's financial problems.

This was evident today in a statement which Caillaux made following a meeting of the cabinet.

"I cannot reveal details of my financial plan until I hand it to the Chamber," Caillaux told newspapermen after the cabinet meeting.

"I can tell you this," he added, with emphasis, "the cabinet decided it will put a question of confidence to the chamber if necessary to force the passage of my financial law."

The cabinet, presided over by President Doumergue, unanimously approved the financial measure submitted by Caillaux.

The cabinet also unanimously approved the report of Premier War Minister Painleve on the campaign against the Riffian tribesmen in French Morocco.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Briand presented two memorandums. The first is the reply, 250 pages in all, which France will send to Great Britain regarding German disarmament. The second memorandum is the note France will send to Germany in reply to Germany's note on the proposed security pact.

On receipt of the German note recently the French government announced it believed Germany should enter the League of Nations as proof of its declaration that it was willing to sign a peace pact.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE BOUND FOR U. S.

Los Angeles Returning To Lakehurst After Trip To Porto Rico

BULLETIN JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 9.—At 1:35 p. m. the navy dirigible Los Angeles was sighted passing Jacksonville.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The navy dirigible Los Angeles is proceeding up the Atlantic coast at an average speed of 60 miles an hour and with favorable weather expects to reach her hangar at Lakehurst at 8 o'clock this afternoon, according to a radio message from the ship to the navy department at 11 o'clock. The dirigible is completing a trip from Porto Rico.

MIAMI, Fla., May 9.—Gleaming in the heavens like a great silver fish, the giant navy dirigible Los Angeles was sighted here at 7 o'clock this morning as it passed over en route from Porto Rico to Lakehurst, N. J.

The ship executed a wide semicircle over the aviation field and then swept over the city, heading north, while whistles from tugs, steamboats and factories gave it a salute. Thousands of people on the streets and on tops of houses stopped their work to watch it glide through the air.

—RUDYARD KIPLING

Mother, whose day it is tomorrow, is typified by Mrs. Mary Kimmell of Washington, D. C.

TO MY MOTHER

How fair you are, my mother! Ah, though 'tis many a year Since you were here, Still do I see your beauteous face, And with the glow Of your dark eyes cometh a grace Of long ago. So gentle, too, my mother! Just as of old, upon my brow Like benedictions now, Falseth your dear hand's touch; And still, as then, A voice that glads me over-much Cometh again, My fair and gentle mother!

How you have loved me, mother, I have not power to tell, Knowing full well That even in the rest above It is your will To watch and guard me with your love, Loving me still, And, as of old, my mother, I am content to be a child, My mother's love beguiled From all these other charms; So to the last Within thy dear, protecting arms Hold thou me fast, My guardian angel, mother!

REPORTS HINT AT SPANISH REVOLT

Censored Dispatches Reach Paris From Morocco Fighting Front

PARIS, May 9.—There has been some sort of revolt among Spanish troops campaigning in Spanish Morocco against Abdel Krim and his Riffians, censored dispatches received in Paris today from Madrid indicated.

According to one dispatch General Sanjurjo, commanding one column of French troops, has telegraphed General Primo Rivera, high commander of Spanish Morocco "that forty-eight hours sufficed to control the conspiracy."

"Those arrested," the dispatch added, "include the ringleaders. We lost one lieutenant killed."

A communique issued by the government at Madrid said a group of 100 or more Moors en route to the French zone attempted to penetrate the Spanish line at Sidi Messaud. Spanish losses were placed at fifty.

PATROL VESSEL BLOWN UP IN ATTACK BY RUM ROW

Boat Is Burned To Water's Edge As Result Of Blast; Blockade Effective

BULLETIN ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 9.—Coast guardsmen fired 500 rounds of ammunition at a forty-five foot rum runner in a running fight in the Delaware river off Cedarville, N. J., it was reported today to the fifth district headquarters. The bootleggers returned the fire but apparently no one was hurt.

One hundred cases of liquor thrown overboard by the rum boat, which escaped, were recovered by coast guardsmen.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Rum-runners attacked government forces on a new sector today when an 80-foot patrol boat which had operated against smugglers off the Florida coast burned to the water's edge after an explosion.

No details of the destruction of the craft were received at coast guard headquarters except that the crew escaped and the explosion occurred under suspicious circumstances.

The coast guard today concentrated its operation over more than 3000 square miles from Nantuxet and No Man's Land island, off Massachusetts, as far south as Atlantic City. This marks a considerable extension of territory from the first day's attack which was directed at the heart of rum row off New York.

"Starvation tactics are being employed against rum row," the coast guard said. "This is the only sure method of success."

More extensive operations against the rum fleet and in the patrol of the entire coast line may be possible by pressing into service smuggling craft seized by the coast guard, it was learned at the treasury today.

Comptroller General J. R. McCull has been asked for a decision as to whether money appropriated for prohibition and customs law enforcement may be diverted for use to operate motor boats and other craft seized by the guard.

If it is found legal to divert prohibition and customs funds, several hundred powerful boats, formerly used in the rum traffic, will be heavily armed and manned by the coast guard for the anti-smuggling war.

The policy of selling the seized vessels has been rejected by the treasury. Officials declared that little money can be obtained for the boats and moreover, if sold, they are invariably put back into the smuggling business.

Blockade Is 100 Per Cent Effective, Claim Officials

NEW YORK, May 9.—Steps were being taken today by the coast guard to combat guerrilla warfare on the part of bootleggers and rum runners which has reached its height as a result of the government's four-day blockade of the liquor running armada off the Atlantic coast.

The blockade, according to prohibition enforcement officials, is "100 per cent effective." Smuggling of liquor into the United States in this vicinity has been completely halted, it was said, and prices of bootleg booze in New York is on the steady advance.

Officials were silent as to the blame for the crippling of thirteen ships of the dry navy which limped into port after three days at sea in comparatively mild weather. It was reliably reported, however, that sabotage is suspected.

The damage to the boats in almost every case had to do with their engines, which were in perfect condition when they put out to sea to help in the work of exterminating rum row.

POLICEMAN LOSES

MAKE CHANGE ON PROGRAM IN COMING ELECTION

Final Report To Be Given On Educational Project Next Tuesday Night

The Glendale Board of Education will ask for permission to sell bonds totaling $1,225,000 for elementary and intermediate school purposes at an election to be held before the end of the school year, probably on June 16.

A special committee of fifteen selected by the board, yesterday completed a survey of school needs in Glendale, and last night made a tentative report recommending that the bond election be called. The recommendation provides for $25,000 more than was voted upon several months ago when the bond issue was defeated.

All of the new sites and additions voted upon at the last election were approved by the committee yesterday, although in some cases the amounts to be asked were decreased.

One more school building than was asked in the last election is provided to be built at a cost of $43,000 in the Glendale Heights district.

Plan Final Report

The final report and recommendations will be made to the Board of Education next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, when a date for the election will be finally set. The board is expected to officially call the bond election next week. Under the present tentative plans it will be held in conjunction with the $150,000 bond election for memorial hall purposes.

The recommendations of the committee do not include the proposed splitting of issues; separating of purchase of sites on which it is not planned to construct buildings at once, from amounts required for additions and new buildings.

Decide on Increase

A total of $361,000 will be asked for intermediate schools, the same as at the last election. For present elementary schools, $418,000 will be asked, as compared with $462,000 at the last election. A total of $365,000, however, is included for new elementary sites and buildings, an increase over $22,000 asked before.

For street improvements $66,000 will be asked, instead of $40,000 at the last election. A total of $15,000 is required for improvement of grounds, the same amount as asked before.

Following are the detailed recommendations.

ASKS TO AMEND CITY MEASURE

Police Judge Lowe In Favor Of Raising Fine For Drunks to $500

Branding the present ordinance fixing punishment for being drunk and disorderly as "antiquated and inadequate," Police Judge F. H. Lowe today announced that he will ask the City Council to amend the measure increasing the penalty from a maximum of $100 fine and thirty days in the county jail to $500 fine and six months in jail.

"The present city ordinance covering this matter was adopted many years ago, before conditions became as serious as they are at present," said Judge Lowe. "Now, however, something must be done to stop this indiscriminate drunkenness and flaunting of bravado in the face of the law."

"I will ask the City Council to adopt my amendment, so that it will be in effect in thirty days from the time of its passage, which I hope will be very soon."

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—At the request of the citizens' water and power committee the City Council has agreed to place the question of uniting the municipalities of Southern California into a water district before the voters at the June 2 election. It is merely a straw vote to show whether citizens of Los Angeles favor a state law that would permit the creation of this water district for the purpose of getting an aqueduct to the Colorado river.

Founder

ANNA JARVIS, founder of Mothers' day and president of Mothers' Day association. She is a resident of Philadelphia.

Sure, I love the dear silver that shines in your hair,

And the brow that's all furrowed, and wrinkled with care.

I kiss the dear fingers, so toil-worn for me,

Oh, God bless you and keep you, Mother Machree.

—Rida Johnson Young.

Carnations, symbolic of maternal devotion, are the national flower today, Mothers' day.

Those whose mother is dead wear a white carnation; a red blossom is worn for a living mother.

Observance of Mothers' day annually all over the United States is due to Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia. She inaugurated the custom, and she also chose the carnation as the Mothers' day flower. She now is president of the Mothers' Day association.

Official distinction has been given to the observance of this holiday by the co-operation of government officials, and the second Sunday in May is now designated in the calendars as Mothers' day.

A feature of the work of the Mothers' Day association and its many branches are the programs in the penitentiaries, where the golden light of maternal affection seldom penetrates.

Nearly all churches will have Mothers' day programs.

FACES CHARGE OF BEATING OFFICER

J. A. Pope Battles Police as Effort Made to Arrest Him Last Night

Following two pitched battles last night in which two policemen were scarred and battered, and himself badly bruised, J. A. Pope today was sentenced to serve thirty days in the county jail and pay a fine of $100 after pleading guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Police Judge F. H. Lowe ordered that Pope be sentenced to spend eighty days in the county jail if he fails to pay the fine today.

Arraignment was set for Monday morning at 10 o'clock on a charge of resisting an officer and bail was fixed at $2000. Other charges still pending against Pope are possession and transportation of liquor. Pope was formerly proprietor of a confectionery store in Glendale.

Battle Starts
Pope was arrested at Brand boulevard and Broadway at 11:30 o'clock last night by Patrolman Wisdom, who offered to take him to his home. En route, according to Wisdom, Pope turned on him and began beating him. Wisdom, a trifle more than half as big as Pope, finally got the handcuffs on his prisoner after he had received a gash over the right eye that required several stitches. Police Sergeant Henderson helped to place the prisoner in a cell at No. 1 fire station when Pope is alleged to have turned on his captors again. In the fight that followed Sergeant Henderson was bruised and cut.

The maximum penalty, if found guilty of resisting an officer, is $5000 fine and five years in prison.

SHOOTS MAD DOG AS ANIMAL LEAPS

Poundmaster Has Narrow Escape as Family Is Trapped in House

Narrowly escaping serious injury from the fangs of a mad dog that was affected with one of the most violent attacks of rabies ever witnessed in Glendale, an entire family was trapped late yesterday in a house until aid was summoned from police headquarters.

The dog made a vicious attack at Mrs. J. W. Stauffacher while she was in the back yard of her home at 721 East Orange Grove avenue. She rushed into the house with one child who had been in the rear yard, as the dog, with a throaty growl and foaming at the mouth, leaped at the door.

Has Narrow Escape

Almost before she had time to close a window, the mad animal had leaped at it. Only a screen prevented him from breaking through into the house. Frustrated there the dog tried to gain an entrance at nearly every window of the place, stopping only to snarl at persons who passed at a considerable distance away, but who did not see him.

Poundmaster J. W. Deerr braved a violent death to get close enough to the animal that charged him madly, to make his first shot certain. It was only five feet away and was in the act of leaping at his throat when Deerr fired. The dog fell dead, shot through the brain.

Pupils Of Two Schools Hear Music Students

Pupils and faculty of Arcadia and Magnolia schools were guests at Glendale Intermediate school Friday and were entertained with a program by the music department, directed by Miss Mildred Hughes.

The program included the following numbers by the school orchestra: March, "Flag of Truce"; waltz, "Over the Waves"; medley, "Songs of the South"; march, "Stony Point"; selections by the Girls' Glee club were: "The Linden Tree," "Swing Song," "May Morning" and "Mammy's Song." The Boys' Glee club sang: "My Name is Yankee Doodle," "Wishin' and Fishin'," "Three Little Chestnuts" and "Our Boys Will Shine."

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS—

Are no man's private property.
Can never fall without our government falling.
Are the beginning of democracy.
Should be carefully insulated from politics.
Should never have to do the work the home should do.
Are not to blame for the parent's failure.
Do the best they can with the raw material furnished them.

THE TRADE-AT-HOME CAMPAIGN

No movement more vital to all the people of Glendale has been started in a long time than the steps taken by the Glendale Merchants' association to form an organization whose principal object will be to promote the interests of Glendale by encouraging trading in Glendale.

The editor of The Glendale Evening News has been sold to the trade-in-Glendale idea from the time we went into the newspaper business a matter of twenty-five years ago. We have always preached "trade at home" and we have always practiced it as well. The Glendale Evening News depends upon the merchants of Glendale for support, and, while it would be possible to build up an advertising patronage from big out-of-town competitors of local merchants and thus double our advertising revenue, we are sufficiently intelligent to know that such a policy would react upon us in the end. To lend our paper as an agency through which to carry out-of-town advertising into Glendale homes and thus divert business and money away from our home community would be to bite the hand that feeds us. Besides being unethical it would be the poorest business policy imaginable, for the fortunes of a city and its home newspaper are irrevocably bound together.

Therefore, depending upon the people of Glendale for patronage and support, we feel in duty bound to support Glendale merchants and employ Glendale people in return.

We have been engaged for the last twelve years in a more or less spasmodic campaign to prove to the people that it is to their own interest to trade at home. We have tried to show that the community can flourish only by the mutual aid of all its people and that cooperation in the community is not a sentiment, but an economic necessity. We have had little or no help from the merchants in this campaign, aside from their advertising patronage.

But with the business men organized to educate the people to the truth of the principle that the growth and affluence of a city depends upon cooperation, immediate and good results are inevitable.

THE AUTOMOBILE SCORES

The automobile is a useful vehicle and the source of much profit and pleasure, but it is blamed for a great many of the ills and the problems of society. It lends itself splendidly to crime and to the use of criminals and it is responsible for two of the most difficult problems that confront the cities, counties and states of the country: The traffic and the highway building problems. A University of Chicago professor says the automobile takes the high school and the college student from the home group and makes him an enemy of society. By this means the "youth is able to go where the people who see him do not care and where the people who care do not see him."

Therefore, it is highly encouraging to read that there is one social evil for which the automobile is not only not responsible, but which it is helping to abolish. Chester H. Rowell declares the automobile brought about prohibition—a rather startling statement. Before the motor age, drunkenness was never more than a minor misdemeanor, he says. It was no offense at all, unless combined with disorderly conduct. But now the mildest intoxication while driving an automobile is a major offense in the law and in public sentiment. He says: "When the whole nation becomes, in effect, locomotive engineers, the ethics of the railroad automatically apply. And that means, 'Don't drink or don't drive.' The reason America was the first to adopt prohibition was not all in our Puritan tradition. Mostly it is in the fact that we have nine-tenths of the automobiles in the world. If the other nations ever acquire our traffic problem they will automatically acquire our drink problem also."

THE OLD-FASHIONED HOME

The disappearance of the old-fashioned American home and the tendency of a large section of our urban population toward flats, multiple houses and courts has caused considerable concern among those who look below the surface of conditions that affect society, for elbow-room and privacy are two important adjuncts to home life, especially if there are children in the family.

But the National Association of Real Estate boards takes a cheerful view of the situation. Statistics have been compiled which show that in a large proportion of double houses the landlord occupies half the house. The tenant pays the rent and carrying charges for the landlord and frequently he is only biding his time until he can buy or build himself a two-family dwelling and become, in turn, a resident landlord.

The average American citizen realizes the value and satisfaction of owning his home, but too often he cannot afford to build and maintain a single family house on a city lot. So he builds the two-family house instead. Eventually such a house insures him enough income to move a little farther out of town, where he builds a one-family dwelling and establishes an old-fashioned American home, back yard, vegetable garden, and all. As a stepping-stone to a real home, the double house is of value in the community.

WILL DAWES WIN?

California newspapers report that Senator Samuel Shortridge, in an interview, expressed himself in favor of the revision of Senate rules as recommended by Vice-President Dawes. Newspapers in other parts of the country have interviewed senators with the same result. The people favor reform in this regard and when senators are at home among their constituents they can not consistently oppose what the people want. It would be interesting to collect these interviews with the senators, lining up the sheep on one side and the goats on the other. Such a compilation of senatorial opinion would, without doubt, reveal that a great majority of the members of the Senate stand with the vice-president on the question. Now, does this mean that Dawes is going to win a bloodless victory, that the big fight scheduled will never take place; or does it mean that some honorable senators are in favor of reform at home and opposed to it in Washington? Again, the lack of a cloture rule, which is the basis of the controversy, may make it possible for the minority in the Senate to prevent any change in the rules.

The politicians who profess to love the people are operated on the self-service plan, also.

THE KEY TO THE WHOLE SITUATION

Party Politics

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There has been a recent movement by prominent men of both parties to increase interest in party government.

Its object as stated is: "To aid in checking the growing indifference of our citizens to the value and necessity of party government. Also to impress upon them the vital need and constant need of their duty as citizens if the principles underlying our institutions are to be maintained and progress gained toward better and more efficient government."

According to the figures given, party government seems to be rather a failure if we can test it by the number of votes it gets.

In the election of 1924, it is stated that thirty million qualified American voters did not vote, and the theory expressed is that this may destroy party government in the United States. It may result in the substitution of the group and thereby imperil the party system of American government.

Leading men of both parties, including the presidential candidate, John W. Davis, Elihu Root, also ex-candidate Alton B. Parker, are taking part in this movement.

It is a curious thing that they all seem to be united in the opinion that parties are necessary for American government. Where they get the notion, it is hard to say.

The American government was not formed by parties and did not under George Washington contemplate parties. Indeed, parties were looked upon as the greatest danger to the republic.

The facts have worked out just this way. Party government has excited the lively interest of a few, the profound indifference of the many.

Party government has succeeded in selecting a very inferior quality of officials for the government. It would seem that it is about time for thinking people to cast about for some other way of running the affairs of the nation.

A book recently published by Justice Clarke indicates how this can be done. It is very simple. It is to revert to the original method of voting which has nothing to do with parties.

From a long record of failure, party government has proved itself incompetent. It is strange how many men who otherwise seem very intelligent can continue to believe in it. It only shows the terrific hold of reactionism and tradition.

Horoscope

This is held to be an unimportant configuration, according to astrology, for while Uranus is in the morning Neptune and Jupiter are both adverse later.

All who contemplate making investments or starting new enterprises today should hesitate, delaying initiative until there is a more encouraging planetary rule. This should be a favorable way for students and all who are connected with schools or universities.

Education is to be more sought than ever before by all classes of persons in America, the seers prophesy, and new angles of various race problems will develop. The Moon today enters Sagittarius, a fiery, masculine sign ruled by Jupiter, and governing the liver, so it will be well to abstain from rich foods.

Extravagance in spending money may mark financial transactions under this direction of the stars, so the wise will think twice before opening their purses. There is an especially good way for literary or artistic pursuits. New authors are to gain lasting fame in this decade.

In the evening social discourse is subject to the most favorable influences, making for mutual understanding and inspiration. At this time the seers predict that there will be a new interest in all forms of water cure and that health will occupy the attention of persons in high governmental positions. Baths are to assume a novel importance at this time when the occult significance of water is recognized.

While there may arise discouraging conditions of business in certain places, the summer should be most favorable for the whole country. It is prophesied that the South African trip of the Prince of Wales is to be marked by an untoward incident of far-reaching importance.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of travel or change in the coming year. They should not speculate or take any risks. Children born on this day may be fond of adventure and they may dislike anything like monotony.

OLD PHOTO

In an old dusty attic, in the house where I was born
I just chanced to rummage through the trinkets, old and worn,
Through some dust-covered rubbish that spoke of other days
An old-fashioned photograph fell before my gaze.

How I laughed when I saw it, so quaint it did appear.
The old-fashioned clothes, all looked so queer.
But my smiles turned to sadness
when the outlines became clear.

dear.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, tells the organization there is no cure for war; that preparedness is necessary.

There doubtless will be further wars. The savage instincts of man, coupled with the natural desires, pride and hunger, which have embroiled the world for so many centuries, will again disturb it.

The late Anatole France, pacifist, admitted this. He said that,—"The human masses have so far not found their equilibrium. The sagacity of the nations is not yet sufficiently methodical to secure the common welfare by means of the freedom and the facility of exchanges;

"Man has so far not come to be looked up to with respect everywhere by man;

"The several portions of humanity are not yet about to associate harmoniously for the purpose of building the cells and organs of one and the same body."

It is to be doubted that nations will ever cease to hate and fear one another.

If war ceases, what would become of patriotism and love of country.

To have forced men to kill each other is the disgrace of emperors and republics alike, the crime of crimes.

In the so-called barbarous ages, cities and princes entrusted their defense to mercenaries who made war deliberately and prudently; in some great battles there were only five or six slain.

And when the knights engaged in war they were not forced to it; they were killed of their own free will. It is true they were good for nothing else.

Anatole France observes that in the days of Louis the First of France, no one, not even a king, would have dreamt of sending a man of learning and intelligence into battle.

"Neither was the laborer dragged from his plough and forced to join the army.

"Now it is considered the duty of every peasant to serve as a soldier.

"Now he is driven from his home. In some miserable barracks he is taught how to kill men methodically; he is threatened, insulted, imprisoned; he is told that it is an honor, and if he desires no such honor, he is shot.

"He obeys, because, like all the gentlest, gayest, and most docile domestic animals, he is afraid."

Anatole France spoke these words while France was at war; yet he was not imprisoned. Men are in Leavenworth or Atlanta for less.

Timely Views

When Edward L. Doheny, who has been a storm center in all the oil scandal discussions for a year or more, gave up his holdings in the Pan-American Petroleum Co., another no less spectacular figure took control. It is Robert W. Stewart, already head of the Indiana Standard Oil Co., who is generally credited with being the chief engineer of the deal which united Pan-American, Indiana Standard and British-Mexican interests into the third largest oil business of the world. And it is the same "Bob" Stewart who, it is predicted by newspaper men familiar with Wall Street gossip, will be the real brains of the new concern.

Colonel Stewart is a man of massive physique. He is an interesting figure because he represents among other things a new trend. He is the lawyer in industry. One hears much from time to time of the oil-driller or rigger or prospector who comes to head a great petroleum combine. But Bob Stewart, up to the time he became head of the colossal Standard Oil of Indiana, had never had a day of practical oil experience.

Colonel Bob went with the Standard Oil of Indiana as general counsel. He was imported from South Dakota to Chicago for the job. That was as recent as 1915. Three years later the lawyer from the plains was made chairman of the board.

Born in Iowa, Stewart went to South Dakota to fight for success in the new country. He went via the law school of Yale university after having first been graduated from Coe college in his native state. He was struggling along at the law out in Dakota when the Spanish War happened along. It also happened that Leonard Wood and Theodore Roosevelt were organizing a regiment of "Rough Riders."

That suited Bob Stewart art down to the ground. He enlisted as a private. When the war was over Stewart was wearing the insignia of a major. Returning to South Dakota he was asked by the governor to reorganize and preside over the national guard of the state. That is when he stuck his title of colonel, which has got to him ever since.

While out in Dakota Colonel Stewart served as state's attorney, as supreme court reporter and as a member of the state senate.

Who's Who

The question of whether to choose a home or a career is not worrying Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, daughter of Chief Justice William Howard Taft. When she takes the position of dean of Bryn Mawr college next September she will combine the duties of her college position and those of mother of two lively little daughters, Helen, 3½-years-old, and Caroline, 2-months.

Mrs. Manning is a graduate of Bryn Mawr, and before her marriage held the same position she is to take next September. She was 26 years old at the time she was acting president in 1919-1920, during the absence abroad of President Thomas, thus gaining the honor of being the youngest acting college president in the country. Mrs. Manning left her post to go postgraduate work and to marry.

When her father was president, Mrs. Manning made her bow to Washington society from the White House. Her husband, Fred-

PASADENA HAS NEW SYSTEM FOR DEEDS

Latest Owner Of Property To Be Recorded Under Proposed Plan

By GIL A. COWAN
Written for The Evening News.
Pasadena plans an innovation that is worthy of emulation on the part of Glendale, namely, the establishment of a city recording system to show the latest ownership of property. The information to be derived from the daily register of deeds at the county recorder's office in Los Angeles.

Operation of this system will be in charge of City Recorder George H. Wood, who announces it will start January 1, 1926. The Pasadena Realty board co-operated in obtaining the sanction of the city commissioners of the Crown City and devising the best procedure for maintaining the new system, according to The Star-News. In the past the only record has been a sworn statement of ownership given in the early summer months.

Present Method
"The present method does not always give the record of latest ownership," says Mr. Wood, "as very many changes take place after the July period for recording has closed. Consequently, if a piece of property changes hands outside the official period of recording, collection of assessments, street liens and other features of city functioning cannot be negotiated readily. There are important advantages to the property owner under the new plan, and the city will be enabled to collect bills much sooner than under the former method, as the owners of property can be notified more promptly."

"The new system of records to be maintained here further brings to light changes in ownership which were not hitherto known. These will be secured from the county recorder's office and for the ideal functioning of the plan the co-operation of title companies and escrow agents is hoped for in securing the addresses of the individuals to whom the property is

Los Angeles County Value Takes Jump

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—More than a third of the wealth of California is centered in Los Angeles county. This was revealed when figures compiled by County Auditor Herbert Payne showed that the assessed valuation of property here has jumped to $2,716,000,000. This assessed valuation, by the tax law, is 40 per cent of the real valuation. The actual property valuation would be $6,800,000,000. The real value of all property in the state is $16,652,500,000.

Santa Fe Survey Indicates California Improved by Good Rainfall

While the year 1925 may not be listed as one for record-breaking agricultural products in the territory extending from Chicago southwest to the Pacific coast and to the Gulf of Mexico, the outlook is good, as shown by reports received from about 700 localities in twelve states along the Santa Fe lines in the area described. This is according to the statement issued by J. F. Jarrell, agricultural manager of the Santa Fe.

The situation in California has improved greatly due to abundant rain, although the water situation is said not to have been brought to normal as yet. However, the heavy snowfall in the mountains and good volume in the reservoirs, together with the conservation policy is believed to be very satisfactory among the agricultural class as well as the hy-

Enjoy Riding in Chevy Chase Estate

Before breakfast canter, discovery rides and pleasure jogs are possible in CHEVY CHASE ESTATE, where a myriad of bridle trails have been constructed by engineers under the personal direction of BERT FARRAR. These paths connect with similar trails in and about Flintridge and weekly parties from the Flintridge Riding club are making Chevy Chase their goal.

Carload Of Telephone Cable Coming To City

A carload of telephone cable for immediate extensions in Glendale is scheduled to arrive here during the next few days, according to Manager Fred Deal of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. The car was shipped from Hawthorne, Ill., along with several others for Los Angeles on April 23. Containing hundreds of miles of telephone wires, the big flexible pipes will be drawn through new underground conduits in several sections of Glendale and some also will be strung overhead.

DROUGHT FORESEEN
NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—Wholesalers report a large demand for pumps and engines from the strawberry and trucking sections, which are turning toward irrigation to protect their crops from drought.

The tremendous demand for choice locations in Chevy Chase is a sure indication that the plans for the development of this great 1600-acre tract are becoming better known, especially in the four cities that immediately surround the property, according to Bert Farrar, owner and developer of Chevy Chase.

"Last week's response to our announcement of the pre-opening sale of the second unit is a sample of the interest taken in the progress of this great new community development," said P. E. McDermott, sales manager, yesterday. "This was so great that we have been forced to change our plans for announcing the opening of this unit in the Los Angeles papers as it seems evident that the local people will take it all and more, too, if we can only get it ready in time."

Franz Herding, noted Swiss city planning architect, has been retained by Bert Farrar to advise on the layout of the roads, bridle trails, golf links, business centers and other features of the great community that is forming here. The plans outlined by Mr. Herding have received high praise from all who have inspected them at it is evident that the splendid opportunity for constructive work presented by the wonderful 1600-acre tract included in the Chevy Chase area is to receive the highest type of artistic treatment.

Have Bridle Paths
A special feature of interest to the people of Pasadena and Glendale are the bridle trails which have already been constructed in the property to connect with the trails of Flintridge and the other adjoining communities. These trails are a permanent feature and it is stated that they provide more room for riding in the shade of great oaks and sycamores than any other paths of their kind in Southern California.

Weekly parties from the Flintridge Riding club are making Chevy Chase their goal. Breakfast rides and discovery rides through the newly-opened sections of Chevy Chase are particularly popular and arrangements have been completed at the tract office of Bert Farrar, Inc., on Chevy Chase drive to secure saddle horses at any time for the convenience of riders who wish to explore the property.

The second unit is open this week for sale to the people who live nearest to the tract, it is stated, and new locations are made available every week it is claimed by the road construction

Soule Acting Commissioner Of Realtors

A. P. Soule, for the past two years chief deputy at the Sacramento office of the California State Real Estate department, has been delegated the authority of acting state commissioner pending the appointment of a successor to Edwin T. Keiser resigned. Mr. Soule will spend considerable time at the Los Angeles office of the real estate department. He has notified the California Real Estate association that he will visit a number of the real estate centers.

On account of the great and growing importance of the state real estate department which has charge of the business operations of over 35,000 brokers and salesmen, the officers of the California Real Estate association have invited Acting Commissioner Soule to be a member of the all California real estate train which leaves June 17 and 18 by way of Los Angeles and San Francisco for the national convention.

Former Commissioner Keiser will also attend the Detroit convention where a conference of state real estate commissioners from over the nation will be held.

Realtor Now On Tour Will Be At Convention

W. I. Hollingsworth of Los Angeles, director at large of the California Real Estate association, who accompanied by Mrs. Hollingsworth has for the last several months been traveling in Europe, writes from the Palace hotel, Rome, that he will attend the Detroit convention of the National Association of Real Estate boards in June. He gives interesting details of his travels and compliments the state association officials for keeping him in touch with the progress of the organization during his absence. He writes in part: "I am much interested in the clippings which you sent me, as they keep me well posted in your work, and I am satisfied that the association is making great progress. I expect to return to Los Angeles in time to go with the boys to Detroit, as I do not feel that I could afford to miss the National convention—to say nothing of the pleasure of being with the boys once more."

Southland's Realtors To Gather At Picnic

Local realty boards throughout Southern California are planning to have large delegations at the third annual picnic of the Southern California Realtors' Picnic association on Saturday, May 16, at Ganesha Lark, Pomona. It was announced today by D. Richard Ainsley, president of the California Real Estate association. The date of the picnic falls during the holding of the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona and that city is to be thrown open to the visiting realtors on that day. The badges of the visitors will bring admittance to any part of the fair, and a special celebration at the scenic Ganesha park, including horse races and other events is being arranged for the occasion. All realtors and their families and friends are especially invited to attend.

State In Front Rank With Electric Users

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—The United States is using almost as much electricity as the rest of the nations of the world combined. California is well in the lead. More than 95 per cent of all the residences in the state of California which are within 300 feet of electric distribution lines make use of electricity.

Foreign dealers are buying all the rugs that the industry in Kernman, Persia, can supply.

State Factory Valuation on Big Increase

According to a survey recently conducted by the California Real Estate association, figures compiled by the department of commerce in Washington show an increase of 26 per cent in the value of manufacturers in California in the biennial census of 1923 over that of 1921. California manufacturers at present are worth approximately $2,000,000,000 a year.

Thus manufacturing demands consideration as the most important industry of the state. In 1924 an average of nearly 247,000 workers were employed and their wages amounted to $333,205,000, an increase of 24 per cent. With such an important groundwork already laid, it is not too sanguine to expect that in a few decades California will be among the first half dozen states of the country in point of manufacturing values and employment.

BOARDS ASKED TO ATTEND SESSION

Educational Conference Set For Realtors at U. S. C. Saturday, May 23

An appeal to every realty board in the state to send at least one representative to the state-wide conference on real estate education to be held at the University of Southern California on Saturday, May 23, was issued today by President D. Richard Ainsley of the California Real Estate association.

"Our educational work in 1924 and 1925 under the direction of Chairman Harrison Lewis," Mr. Ainsley said, "has resulted in over 2000 members in thirty-five cities getting an idea through education of the supreme importance of the educated salesman." The conference will begin with a luncheon and continue throughout the afternoon. The experiences of the educational classes during the past year will be reported and a survey and recommendations made to the University of Southern California for the coming year. Prominent university and state association officials will attend, and an invitation has been extended by Chairman Lewis

FARM OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS WITH RAIN

Pacific-Southwest Condition Is Improved Materially Statistics Indicate

"The agricultural outlook in the Pacific-southwest territory has improved materially during April, due to favorable weather conditions. The future of the livestock industry appears better than at any time in the past three years. As a result the psychology of farming communities is improving. It is not to be expected that this will result in an immediate expansion in business operations. Statistics indicate sustained business in the Los Angeles basin. Fundamental factors are favorable to the maintenance of the present level."

This is the introductory paragraph in the monthly summary of conditions, prepared by the research department of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank and the First Securities Co.

Unusually heavy rainfall during April in all important growing districts came, as previously, at a time well suited for farm operations. Temperatures following the rains were beneficial. Additional snowfall in the mountains has assured water for irrigation well into the summer. An adequate supply of power is expected. Crop damage from frost is less than was anticipated.

Citrus Markets

The markets on citrus fruits are very favorable. Returns to growers will exceed materially those of last season, despite the short crop. The navel orange harvest is completed and the Valencia movement will start during May. The deciduous fruit outlook in the San Joaquin valley is particularly encouraging. Crops indicate reaching matured stage at almost normal production. A fair crop of canning fruit is anticipated in the districts south of the Tehachas. Early reports indicate prices slightly in excess of last season.

Indications point to normal production of all varieties of grapes. The set of walnuts was very heavy and uniform. A record crop would not be surprising. Planting of beans is under way. Additional rain is desired to insure a crop on unirrigated land. Grain fields have been revived and output will be more nearly normal. Alfalfa production should now exceed last year. Cotton acreage is estimated at 12 per cent in excess of last season. The livestock industry has been greatly stimulated by abundant feed and higher prices for fat cattle.

GLENDALE BUILDING LEADS LONG BEACH

Local Permits for April $95,000 More Than Beach City and Exceeds Same Month Last Year by $120,000

Building in the Pacific southwest for April, 1925, fell off slightly compared with the preceding month, but showed a small gain over April of last year. Fifty-four cities, including Los Angeles, reported building permits issued during April, 1925, aggregating $24,810,048, as compared with $24,598,981 for April, 1924. Fifty-three cities reported for March, 1925, building to the amount of $25,636,682.

For April, 1925, fifty-three cities outside Los Angeles reported building aggregating $10,312,017 as compared with $11,374,413 for the same month a year ago. For March, 1925, fifty-three cities outside Los Angeles reported a total of $8,556,924.

San Diego leads the cities outside Los Angeles in volume of building for April, with Pasadena second. Beverly Hills with a gain of more than 100 per cent is third, and Glendale fourth, while Long Beach dropped into fifth place.

Record by Months

Building in the Pacific Southwest for the first four months of 1925 shows a loss of about 13 per cent compared with the corresponding period in 1924. Following is the record by months with the number of cities reporting for each month:

NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN

VIEWS AND PREVIEWS—NEWS NOTES FROM STUDIOS
Compiled By Members of The Glendale Evening News Staff

Comos Stars

Matt Moore and Patsy Ruth Miller are flashing over the screen at Glendale's newest theatre for today and tonight only. Tomorrow brings Louis Stone in "Husbands and Lovers."

"Fools in the Dark," co-starring Matt Moore and Patsy Ruth Miller, is the feature attraction today and tonight on the screen at the Cosmo Theatre, Brand and Windsor roads. Tomorrow "Husbands and Lovers" with Louis Stone in the featured role will be the attraction.

"Fools in the Dark" contains farce comedy, burlesque and melodrama dealing with the ambitions of a young man whose father's success is odious to him. He manufactures the "Stacyclean Garbage Can."

"Husbands and Lovers" represents a humorous explosion of domestic happiness. Like its popular predecessors, "Why Men Leave Home" and "The Dangerous Age," "Husbands and Lovers" presents a searching analysis of married life, pictured with a full valuation for its serious side, its trials and tribulations and sad misunderstandings, but treated in a humorous vein.

'CODE OF WEST' IS GATEWAY PICTURE

Film Based On Novel Written By Zane Grey; Star Is Owen Moore

Flapperism comes in for a sound spanking and jazz receives a knockout blow in Paramount's "Code of the West," which Lucien Hubbard adapted and William K. Howard produced from the Zane Grey novel of the same name. The direct and drastic methods of the west were never better illustrated than in this absorbing photoplay in which a sturdy son of Arizona teaches a flapper daughter of New York the a-b-c of living and loving.

Pictured against marvelous natural backgrounds and abounding in breath-taking thrills, "Code of the West," which is showing at the Gateway Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, unfolds its vivid, appealing story of the romance of Georgie May Stockwell, a frivolous little flapper, and Cal Thurman, a sturdy, virile cowboy.

The young westerner, unused to the ways of the East, falls an easy victim to the charms of Georgie, who flirts outrageously with him but laughs at him when he proposes to her. The realization that she has only been playing with him infuriates Cal and he moves her to marry him.

This is the beginning of an unusual series of events that reach a terrific climax during the height of a roaring forest fire. The manner in which Georgie and Cal escape paying the way to their ultimate reunion provides several mighty thrills and some great dramatic moments.

Owen Moore has the strong role of the cowboy-caveman, and Constance Bennett gives a good account of herself as the flighty, flirty flapper. Others in the cast are Mabel Ballin, Charles Ogle and David Butler.

2 Motorists Injured When Auto Hits Stage

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Two men were injured, one perhaps seriously, when an automobile crashed into a stage here, according to authorities. Arthur Chille, owner of the car, was the more seriously injured. Orville Wagner, who was driving at the time of the accident, suffered lesser injuries.

Baby Son Of Princess Yolanda Of Italy, Dies

LONDON, May 9.—The baby son of Princess Yolanda of Italy, born last week, has died, according to a despatch to the Agency from Pinerola, Italy. The princess and Count Calvari were married two years ago.

PLAYHOUSE WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

Dobinson Players To Open Two Weeks' Engagement In Los Angeles

Insofar as the Dobinson Players are concerned, Glendale Playhouse closes its doors after tonight's performance of "The Wonderful Thing." It now seems almost settled that the company will not return to the Playhouse after its Los Angeles engagement. Whether it returns to Glendale later is entirely up to Glendale. The sum of $35,000 has been lost since the first of last October in offering good, clean entertainment—amusing and clever plays by a competent company of professional actors. Every member of the cast for every attraction has been a professional with sound training and years of experience behind him.

In order to bring the audiences the admission was lowered from 75 cents, one-half the price charged by competing organizations in Los Angeles to 50 cents, or one-third of the competing price. Competent critics have declared repeatedly that the Dobinson Players are the best stock company in California. Especially has this praise been given since Fred J. Butler took the direction of the players over two months ago.

Three different groups of people are negotiating with Florence Dobinson for the erection of a theatre for the players in Glendale. It is not a question of money; there is money available. If the promoters can just be sure that the plays will be supported so that a reasonable return on the investment is guaranteed.

Mrs. Dobinson naturally feels that she and Miss Mary Alpaugh, treasurer of the company, and their backers, have done everything that they can be expected to do. The work of arousing and solidifying Glendale sentiment is now up to Glendale.

The players open on Monday night, May 11, in the Philharmonic auditorium with Olga Printzlan's "Manna" for a two weeks' engagement. Those who have not seen this remarkable play are urged to see it at the auditorium, as it is almost certain that they will not have an opportunity to see it again in Glendale. While the cast which presented the play here was regarded as ideal, it has been strengthened in several particulars, and is believed to be the best ever assembled in stock in Los Angeles.

McClintock Counsel In Reply to 'Meddling'

CHICAGO, May 9.—Judge Harry Olson, "counsel for the dead," in the Mc Clintock death probes, made a public answer to the wrathful statement of State's attorney Robert E. Crowe, in which he intimated he considered Judge Olson and the coroner's jury "meddling" in ordering Mrs. Julie Shepherd held as an accessory to the alleged murders of Mrs. Emma Mc Clintock and her son, Billy. Olson denied the defense cry of "conspiracy" and "persecution" which has been raised. "There is no conspiracy and no persecution here unless it be persecution and conspiracy engineered by the Shepherds," he said.

Government Oil Case Hearing Is Postponed

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Government oil counsel, seeking new conspiracy indictments against the principals in the naval oil reserve scandal, have decided to postpone presentation of their case until the additional regular grand jury meets here Monday. They had planned to go ahead today before the special grand jury. The last minute decision to alter the procedure was reached to prevent defendants filing demurrers claiming that the regular grand jury was prevented from sitting in the case.

Education Society Is Fully Incorporated

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The California Society for the Study of Secondary Education is now a fully incorporated organization following filing of papers at Sacramento. It was announced by officers here. The new organization was incorporated as the successor of the California High School Teachers' association.

SOUTHERN PINE

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—Orders to Southern Pine association mills last week dropped a fraction to 79,900,000. Shipments were 82,900,000 feet and production 75,000,000 feet. Unfilled orders total 214,000,000 feet.

MOTHER

A mother is a mother still, The holiest thing alive.—Coleridge.

Fire Film

Dorothy Devore has lead in "Fighting the Flames," to show at Glendale theatre for three days starting tomorrow.

"Fighting the Flames," which opens at the Glendale theatre tomorrow afternoon for three days, has a remarkable cast to play the exciting fire story which forms the basis of the film. Dorothy Devore, who plays the lead with William Haines, had an early career in vaudeville and on the legitimate stage, going from the experience thus gained directly to the movie lot.

William Haines is remembered for his success in "The Midnight Express," another action picture depicting railroad life. David Torrence is the brother of Ernest Torrence of "The Covered Wagon" fame, who is a very excellent actor in his own right. Sheldon Lewis, the heavy, is known for his villain parts. Charlie Murray, Frankie Darrow and others are also included in the cast.

For thrills and action in motion pictures it will be hard to beat "Fighting the Flames." It is a fire picture, showing daring rescues, and spectacular blazes.

WESTERN DRAMA WELL BALANCED

Comedy, Melodrama, Thrills In 'Straight Through' At Glendale

The three essentials in motion picture drama of western life, melodrama, comedy and the thrills of fast action on horseback, are to be found in well-balanced proportions in "Straight Through," starring William Desmond which shows for the last times tonight at the Glendale theatre.

The comedy element is the more appreciated because of the fact that it is so intensely human, for there are few who have not come in personal contact with the misadventures of one who mingles right, but who bungles in his efforts to do them.

On the stage there is a wide range of variety in the vaudeville acts. In a real miniature musical comedy Clifton, Kemp & Haynes comprise a chummy trio under the title of "Dance Varieties." Roy Gordon and Nell Healy have a new comedy skit called "Wedded Bliss" that is real comedy. Miss Healy was the winner of the New York American's beauty contest, a beautiful blonde with blue eyes.

One of the unique novelties is "Rag Art," presented by Wills and Harold Brown. They create beautiful scenic and portrait effects from nothing but a bunch of variegated rags. Alphonso's company presents a marionette circus. Kook Kapers discloses the well-known "Minstrel Miss" Bertie Hertton, who receives her stage training from the famous Ned Wayburn. She is accompanied by Milt Arnsman.

Accused In Rancher's Death Plead Illegality

HANFORD, May 9.—The fight of John H. Tipton and Robert McCamish, who with Mrs. W. Stanton Brown and Fred Mills are held in the "death conspiracy" alleged following the finding of the body of Lee Camp, wealthy rancher, on Hanford's "ranch of regrets," to obtain bail was today under postponement until Monday. At the resumption of the hearing yesterday, Tipton testified in support of claims that indictments returned against the quartet in connection with Camp's death were illegal as they had been examined and questioned in the presence of others than the grand jury members.

Mountaineer Killed In Primitive Dueling

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 9.—A primitive duel today at Kazwell, near here, resulted in the death of Oscar O'Dell, 22. Carl Cole, 23, was held charged with the shooting. The two men, sons of prominent farmers of Claiborne county, pulled revolvers and fired almost simultaneously, following an argument.

CASA VERDUGO IN ANNEXATION PLEA

Petitions Circulated Asking Glendale Election To Bring About Union

Petitions asking the Glendale City Council to call an election to annex the Casa Verdugo district to this city are being circulated in that section at the present time and will be presented to the council within the next few weeks, it was learned today.

This follows the recent calling of an election to be held June 16 to vote on the annexation of Verdugo Hills, a district comprising about fifteen square miles north-west of the city and extending nearly to the Tujunga boundary. There has been a movement under way in Casa Verdugo for several weeks to bring about annexation to Glendale, it was indicated today, but until a recent automobile fire in a garage in the center of the district it had not been brought to a head.

No Fire Protection The Casa Verdugo district has no fire protection. One water plug is located at the principal corner, but there has been no water in it for months. The section has no fire department and the Glendale department has answered all calls that have come from there. It was the Glendale department that extinguished the blaze in the garage there recently.

The local department, however, is under orders to answer no fire call outside the corporate limits of the city if there is a fire within the city. City Manager V. B. Stone will ask the new council next Thursday to issue similar instructions, in line with the policy of the council that recently retired. Following the recent fire the Casa Verdugo annexation movement gained strength and the petition will be presented within the next few weeks, it was learned today.

Husband Kills Wife As She Sleeps; Is Suicide

ONAWA, Iowa, May 9.—Chas. Phemeister, 60, of Topeka, Kan., shot and killed his wife, Marie, 45, then killed himself here today. The double tragedy took place at a hotel where the couple registered last night. The woman was shot three times in the breast, apparently while sleeping. The man then shot himself through the heart. No motive for the act is known to local authorities. The couple arrived here last night on a late train, registering at the hotel and at once went to their room. Only $3 was found in their effects.

Second Unit Sales Break All Records

Last Sunday started a pre-opening sale in the second unit of Chevy Chase for GLENDALE PEOPLE ONLY.

This local sale was planned to precede a great new opening sale in all of Southern California. But this big announcement has been necessarily postponed BECAUSE GLENDALE PEOPLE HAVE FAR EXCEEDED the response that we expected.

Chevy Chase is proving a magnet that attracts all who hear of its marvelous beauties. As fast as new homesites are made available for sale the buyers come, and a very large percentage are Glendale people who know this property the best. The story of the second unit will be as short as the first.

But THIS SUNDAY is only the second of the present sale and there are many splendid locations still available for you if you act quickly.

These low opening prices are worth your careful consideration because there is no possibility of an opportunity like this ever being repeated here. You are buying direct from Bert Farrar, owner and developer of the property, TODAY. Later, it is inevitable that all values in Chevy Chase will rise to higher levels than any other section of the city because Chevy Chase offers most to the homeseeker.

SURROUNDINGS OF HOME IMPORTANT

Environment Great Factor In Value Of Property In Future Years

Every home buyer or builder is vitally interested in the future of the immediate surroundings of their new home. Environment has a very great influence upon their happiness and the security of their investment. A lot or house which is ideal in itself may be made almost valueless as a home or investment by its surroundings.

Before a person buys they should be sure they like the neighborhood in which they contemplate buying. The residence restrictions of the tract and the immediate neighborhood must pass their rigid investigation. The location with reference to transportation, local markets and schools is vital.

Few people realize that by buying property fifteen minutes farther away from their work they are throwing away thirty minutes a day. If they value their time, they can afford to pay very much more for a close-in location than for one farther out, provided the two in all other respects are equal.

Value Advancement

Another very important consideration in buying is whether the environment of the lot or house they think of buying is already made or only in contemplation. This environment can be assured in two ways: by being already a reality or by being controlled by the tract restrictions of the tract in which they buy, or both.

Only vital difference not generally appreciated is that, where a community is largely built up by they who purchase in a subdivision of modest size in that community are positively assured of immediate advance in value in the deeded. The record will then show the up-to-date ownership and the address of the new owner.

Old System Kept "The system is independent of the existing system which must be maintained," proceeded Mr. Wood. "It will be used in this office primarily in connection with the selling out of street improvements and assessments generally."

In order to establish the system, blue line prints of all city maps will be made, and the present time is particularly propitious as new maps are at present being drawn up and the additional prints will be available at a nominal cost.

Lovers Found Dead In Auto On Lonely Road

FORT WAYNE, Ind., May 9.—Police and detectives today were seeking a motive for what was believed to have been a murder and suicide following the discovery of the bodies of Howard Fisher, 21, machinist, and Katherine Herbert, 20, both of this city, in an automobile on a lonely road a mile outside the city limit yesterday. A farmer on his way to town discovered the parked car with its two dead occupants, notified police. A .38 calibre revolver was found in the lap of the young woman.

SOUTH TEXAS OIL

HOUSTON, May 9.—The average oil production in the coastal and south Texas fields last week was 177,995 barrels, an increase of 2,650 barrels. Twenty-seven new coastal producers added 16,335 barrels to initial production.

property which they buy. Their returns are much quicker and sure than when they buy in a large acreage on the edge of present development, where, it must of necessity take years for the full development and upbuilding of their environment.

The conclusion is obvious and indisputable that, whether buying a lot or house, the immediate increase in value is more certain and more rapid in close-in properties.

Plan No. 3A2

The average three and four room bungalow can be convenient without doubt and comfortable to live in, but it is seldom distinguished for its architectural beauty.

This design, 3-A-2, provides three principal rooms on first floor and a fourth room under the roof that combine usability, economy of building and fine appearance in an unusually successful manner. The plan is practically rectangular. This is an item that produces lower costs, but, on account of the clipped gable ends and the eyebrow treatment of the roof over the entrance, the design does not have a tendency toward a box-like appearance such as many square houses have. The porch can be enclosed or left open as may be desired.

On the first floor there are three principal rooms with bath and three large closets. The kitchen is equipped with dining alcove with built-in seats and table. The refrigerator stands in the rear entry and is equipped for outside icing.

The living room is made inviting by a fireplace opposite which there is a group of three windows. An additional double window insures excellent lighting for this room.

Copyright 1925—Architects' Small House Service Bureau. Home Builders' Clinic.

The second story bay be left uncompleted for the time being or fitted with an additional room. If the fireplace is placed on the end wall of the living room, two rooms may be obtained in the attic space.

Construction is wood frame on continuous masonry foundations. The exterior finish is stucco, but siding may be used.

A 40-foot lot would be required.

This house should face the north or west. It may be reversed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The plans for small homes are furnished by the Regional Bureau of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects, and has the endorsement of the Department of Commerce United States government. It is practically a non-profit making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at modest cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of this paper. The United States bureau maintains an information department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Enclose stamped addressed envelope.

Valencia Oranges

The yield of Valencia oranges will be about 75 per cent of last year, but the return to the growers likely will reach the profits of last year on account of the favorable prices. The navel orange crop for 1925-26 should be normal, judging from present conditions. The delicious fruit crops, with the exception of apricots, will be normal, and in some localities better than normal. A heavy cherry crop is moving to market. The prospects for grapes are good, while green vegetables, lettuce, cauliflower, etc., are finding a favorable market. The wheat crop will be about 80 per cent of normal. The livestock situation has improved and pasturage is holding out well.

Kansas is expecting to harvest between 100,000,000 and 125,000,000 bushels of wheat, which will approach the five-year average. Missouri will range from 75 per cent of normal to fair.

Oklahoma Rains

Rains which broke Oklahoma's protracted dry spell the latter part of April, are favorable for a wheat production of from 32,000,000 to 35,000,000 bushels. In Texas the cotton crop is reported favorable, notwithstanding the prolonged drought which has in the southern part of Arizona has relieved the situation in that state. The supply of water in the reservoirs is ample to meet the needs of farmers in the irri-

Questions On Building
Are Answered For You

Questions addressed to this paper will be answered by the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., controlled by the American Institute of Architects and endorsed by the department of commerce, United States government. Inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Q—What is the difference between a sill and a girder, a stud and a bearing post?

A—A sill is a heavy timber that goes immediately above the foundation wall. It serves as a connection between the superstructure and the foundations. A girder supports the joists and spans between the posts and sill or from sill to sill. A stud is a form of column used in framing walls and partitions, being one of a number of such members. A bearing post is generally a segmented column standing alone to support a girder or beam.

Q—We are financing the building of our home on a first mortgage, but we need more money than it is possible to obtain in this manner. To whom should we apply for a second mortgage?

What is a fair rate of interest to pay? Do you think it safe to get money in this manner?

A—You can obtain your second mortgage from home financing concerns who make a specialty of this kind of a loan. The rates of interest depend upon how much money you borrow, but the greatest difference lies in the amount of commission that is charged. This may range between 5 per cent and 20 per cent. Shop around until you get a fair price, but do not borrow money from anybody who has not the reputation for playing square. It is safe to borrow money in this way only if you are able to meet the obligation that you incur to repay. Do not overreach your financial strength.

Q—I am placing my plans in the hands of dealers for estimates of the cost of materials that are to go into the house. A certain lumber dealer who also operates a mill tells me that the quantity survey is wrong in that certain materials classed as mill work may more properly be classed as lumber and thus a saving effected. What is the difference between these two classes?

A—It is customary to classify certain parts of the millwork as lumber and certain parts as millwork. Roughly speaking, lumber is all the heavy framing material that is used such as joists, studs, sheathing, common boarding so on. In this class also is placed finish flooring and generally outside finish. Millwork comprises doors, windows, inside casings built in cabinet work, cupboards, mantels, stairs, etc.

Q—Is it proper construction for porch piers to be made of wood? How are they kept from rotting?

A—Porch piers should not be

New Home of Empire Lighting Fixture Company Completed

The New Atwater Plant and Display Rooms of the Empire Lighting Fixture Co., Owned by John F. Mortensen.

The new Atwater plant and display rooms of the Empire Lighting Fixture Co., owned and operated by John F. Mortensen, 522 West Lexington drive, Glendale, will be formally opened with elaborate entertainment features and a number of exceptional offers, next Tuesday.

The fixture company, the largest in the Southwest since its expansion at the new Atwater plant, has been an old established firm in Los Angeles, operating under the name of the Los Angeles Electrical Construction Co. Mr. Mortensen will continue this company for doing wiring and electrical construction work, but will conduct his fixture business under the name of the Empire Lighting

Co. The showrooms at 4605 Beverly boulevard will be maintained in addition to the new Atwater plant.

Two large wrought iron porch lights, the gift of Mr. Mortensen to the Oakmont Country club, will be unveiled Tuesday night. A large number of club members are expected to witness this ceremony. Mr. Mortensen, who is a member of the club, will make the presentation.

Everyone in Glendale and Atwater Park is invited to the grand opening on Tuesday. Entertainment features will be provided throughout the day and evening. A Hawaiian orchestra will play.

An introductory sale will continue throughout the week. Five hundred high class wrought iron bridge lamps with hand-painted parchment shades, regularly valued at $15, will be offered to visitors at the display rooms on Glendale boulevard for $5.49. With every purchase of $50 or more one of these lamps will be given away free.

The new electrical plant is the largest and most up-to-date in Southern California. All wrought iron fixtures sold by the concern are made at the Atwater plant. A staff of 50 men are employed. Mr. Mortensen, sole owner of both the Los Angeles Electrical Construction Co. and the Empire Lighting Co., has been a resident and heavy property owner in Glendale for a number of years.

Riverside Lumber Co. Enjoys Good Business

There is every indication that the cost of building materials will advance still higher, states E. T. Nelson, proprietor and manager of the Riverside Lumber Co., 3021 Riverside drive, Los Angeles. Mr. Nelson says that cement and plaster have already advanced in price.

Business has been unusually brisk and will get better in the opinion of Mr. Nelson, who has supplied the lumber and building materials for a number of dwelling and business houses in the Atwater district of Glendale.

Local Electrical Firm Busy With New Work

P. R. Macholt and R. F. Doll, partners in the firm of Macholt-Doll Electric Co., 1109 South Brand boulevard, feel themselves indeed lucky as this past week brought them a contract of the wiring and installing and furnishing the fixtures for a Los Angeles contractor who is starting one hundred houses, the first unit of ten houses to be started at once.

This firm of electrical contractors is about to finish the house and power wiring of a $90,000 home in Flintridge. This will be one of the most beautiful and pretentious residences of this wealthy suburb of Pasadena.

House Painting Season Now Officially Open

E. H. Hahn, manager of the Jewel City Paint & Wall Paper Co., 216 East Broadway, reports that the season on house painting is now officially open, and much call is being made on interior and exterior paints. This firm handles the Pittsburgh Proof Products, which are nationally famous, in Glendale.

A great deal of interest is being displayed in the line of new 1925 patterns of wall paper, says Mr. Hahn, and there is every indication that the wall paper business will be as large or larger than last year.

Farm Outlook Made Brighter By Rain

fect the volume of business indicate sustained activity in the Los Angeles basin. Retail turnover in April will exceed March. Wholesale trade has been quiet. Building permits in Los Angeles during each of the past two months have exceeded all months since March of last year. The volume of manufacturing continues at a fair level. Petroleum production registers a slight decline. Business failures are large in number but normal in aggregate volume of liabilities. Bank deposits in Los Angeles show a healthy increase during the first quarter of the year. The credit situation is favorable.

The entire San Joaquin valley has a better outlook than for several years past at this season of the year. Agricultural conditions are extremely gratifying. Indications point to a very satisfactory crop year. The heavy rains have altered the situation in the coast districts north of Los Angeles and growers are optimistic. The situation is favorable in the districts east and southeast of Los Angeles as a result of strong citrus prices and the anticipated heavy walnut crop. The general outlook in the San Fernando valley is the best in two years. Conditions in the Imperial valley are unchanged.

Investment Market
The investment market during April witnessed alternate periods of activity and quiet. However, at no time did the market display any weakness or scarcity of prices. The supply of money seeking investment remains plentiful and can still be obtained at easy rates. Apparent continuation of this condition augurs well for the future of bond prices. In the municipal bond market, particularly, prices remain as strong and competitive bidding for issues as keen as ever.

The outstanding piece of business in the financial market during the month was the acquisition and financing of Dodge Bros., Inc. The $75,000,000 6 per cent debentures and $85,000,000 7 per cent preferred stock offered to the public as part of this transaction, were greatly oversubscribed in each instance on the morning of the offering. This was an unflattering test of the ability of the market to absorb issues of considerable magnitude without any visible effort.

Banking Report
Statements of banks in the Los Angeles basin, following the call of the comptroller of the currency and state superintendent of banks as of April 6 show a continued healthy increase in deposits during the first quarter of the year. Bank deposits in Los Angeles totaled $981,826,000 on that date, compared with $936,465,000 on December 31, 1924, and $846,605,000 on March 31, 1924. Deposits are increasing in the citrus districts as returns come in from the citrus crops.

OFTEN home owners tell us—"I'll let painting go another year"—with the idea that they are saving money by delay. Just the opposite is true. A single season without paint protection gives decay, rot and fungus a start which means depreciation and repairs. If the old paint isn't giving weather protection, paint now. Delay means decay.

Sun-Proof Paint

SCHOOL DEFEATS CHILD LABOR LAW

Junior Debating Team Holds Negative Of Question Of Ratification

By SUMNER LAMKIN
Victory was awarded the junior team that upheld the negative in a debate on the subject: "Resolved: That the child labor amendment be ratified," a question of great national importance and of interest to every person in the United States. The debate took place May 5, at the Broadway High auditorium.

The juniors had for their speakers, Jack Salyer, Radcliffe Clausen and Jerome Andrews. These debaters were coached by James Sargrove. The sophomore team was composed of Kathryn Browne, Dorothy Irwin and Mary Scoles, Marie Griggs coaching them. The chairman of the debate was Alice Hill.

Kathryn Browne, first speaker for the affirmative, reviewed the child labor condition as it is at the present time. "Children as young as six," she said, "are employed in the wheat fields of Michigan and Colorado, earning from two to five dollars a week. There are also six thousand children in the coal mines of Pennsylvania. In the entire country there are two million children employed."

Negative Argument

The first speaker for the negative, Radcliffe Clausen, said, "We are not here to discuss the evils of child labor, but on the contrary to correct this condition." He also stated that the child labor amendment was not a privilege given to the people, and that trusting congress to take care of child labor, when they cannot take care of what they do now, is foolish.

Dorothy Irwin, speaking for the affirmative, opened her argument saying that children who work are deprived of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

"The child labor law," she continued, "is planning to control the backward states only and is not for the states like California."

Jack Salyer, second speaker for the negative stated that there were two million children from ten to fifteen years of age who were employed in 1910. This number was reduced to one million in 1920, of these, sixty-one per cent are employed on farms. According to the Country Gentleman, the eighteen year limit is a joke. "The child labor law is a violation of the states' rights," Salyer argued.

Another Argument

The last speaker on the affirmative team, Mary Scoles, said: "The child labor condition concerns all society. This condition ruins the health of children. They become stunted, working from ten to eleven hours a day. The national government should take care of this matter. If we do not do away with child labor we will not be as powerful as we are today. Condition of child labor is a national question. It is hard to believe that children in such numbers are employed but the facts are true and cannot be denied."

Jerome Andrews, last speaker, was opposed to the violation of states' rights. He said, "The constitution should not be amended so many times. The act does not solve the problem but is only an enabling act."

Children's Defender

"What will become of the children who are now employed if the amendment is ratified?" Jerome asked. "A national education law should be introduced. Then what would there be of the child labor amendment?"

Each debater then had a three minute period in which to put forth his rebuttal.

The judge in the debate were Miss Jennie Freeman, head of the English department, Harold L. Brewster, head of the dramatic department, and James Mussatti of the history department.

By winning this debate, the class of '26 will keep the Anderson debating trophy which was given last year by Horace Anderson, a former Glendale student, to be awarded the winner of the annual inter-class debate.

New Singing Group Forms For Assembly

By MARJORIE PHILLIPS
Under the direction of Mrs. Florence Parker, head of the music department of Broadway High, an assembly singing, by class groups, of popular music was begun this week.

The girls were called to the auditorium during roll periods, and judging from the enthusiasm displayed the enterprise promises to be a successful innovation in the school program.

Next week the boys will meet in the auditorium for a like purpose.

COPY FOR STYLUS URGED BY MAY 13

Glendale High's Year Book Prepares For Printing In Near Future

By PAUL HUSTON
Glendale High school's Stylus staff announces that all copy for the annual must be in by May 13, so that the printer may start work. The Stylus of this year promises to be the biggest and the best that has ever been edited at the high school.

The Stylus is a record of the school year at Glendale high in the form of a book with photographs and illustrations. It is of especial interest to seniors because it contains an individual picture and achievement record for each one of them. The faculty, school and class officers are all described in an interesting manner. With all these features taken into consideration the Stylus is the best record of the school year.

Leather Cover

Leather covers are to be one of the many features in this edition. The sport section is the largest ever put in a Stylus because of the many championships won in both major and minor sports.

Hendrik Van Rensselaer is editor of this year's Stylus and if the success of the book is to be judged by the amount of work Hendrik has done, it will be the best ever published. Paul E. Webb is assisting the staff as faculty adviser.

Girls' 'G' Club Reports Style For Class Pins

By MARJORIE PHILLIPS
Members of the Girls' "G" club of Broadway High held a business meeting on Tuesday, May 5. The most important business was the ordering of their club pins.

These pins will be red enamel, with a black block "G" in the center. They are different from any other school pins. The president made the report on them in behalf of Betty Maberry, chairman of the pin committee, who was absent.

After the pins were ordered, assembly monitors, who are to keep order in assemblies, were assigned their positions in the auditorium.

The Girls' "G" club, which is similar to the Boys' "G" club, has been very active in the school, considering the short time it has been organized. All the girls who have earned their "G" letters are members. There are now about sixty girls in the club.

Dorothy Godar is president of the organization, and Kathryn Bender is secretary.

Girl Trio Furnishes Music At French Club

By MADELINE SMITH
A trio composed of Laura Moyse, piano, Lillian Sutton and Margaret Ellis, violin, furnished music for a meeting of the French club held last Wednesday at the Broadway High school. The number played by the girls was Franz Liszt's "Gondoliera" transcribed by Linblad.

The several string sand piano students now rehearsing under the direction of Miss Zula M. Zeigler, piano teacher at the high school, are preparing for the various musical events scheduled for May and June.

A group of piano duets played by Laura Moyse and Clytelle Hewitt is scheduled for the P.T.A. program at the Central avenue school, Thursday, May 14. The selections chosen are: Hungarian Dance, No. 5, Brahms; Ballet Music from "Faust", Gounod.

SENIORS 'BATTLE' ON COLOR FOR TROUSERS

Shade to Adorn Graduation Pants Causes Warfare in Ranks of Dignified Students of Class of '25

By WARD FOULTZ
Shall they be white, grey, blue, tan, green, orange, or magenta? That is the question which the boys of the high and lofty senior class at G. U. H. S. cannot decide. The question arises in regard to the color of the trousers which they are to wear at their graduation in June. It seems that thus far their poor little minds have run up against a problem which they are not capable of solving.

At a class meeting two weeks ago, this momentous problem of choosing the color for their graduation trousers was brought up and discussed. A "bloody" battle ensued.

First a majority of boys rallied bravely to the cause of white trousers thus vanishing completely the humble grey. But with an unexpected spurt of enthusiasm, supporters of tan colors went to the front and a loyal majority voted for tan trousers.

And then pandemonium broke loose while low mutterings of dark blue suits were heard throughout the auditorium. "We want white," yelled one group. "Long live the tan," shouted another. "Heated" members of the class "spoke" fiery orations on the merits of the different colors. All their reserve energy was unselfishly offered to the cause of supporting their colors.

Classy and Jazzy

One tan advocate after getting the floor argued, "Hear ye, oh, my people! We want something classy, jazzy, and snappy, don't you know, something that will knock 'em dead and that we can wear at the beach or anywhere."

It was then discovered that Wesley Pomeroy, a member of the class, was wearing a pair of the chosen tan specimens, and so he was forced to parade before the admiring eyes of his fellow classmates, displaying his "wares."

In this manner the senior boys were confused and the decision for tan trousers stood. But after the matter was thus settled the poor children became dissatisfied and now a part of them want some other colored trousers than the both loved and hated tan. Such astounding and disrespectful names as "mustard pants," and "mud pants," etc., have been given the chosen article by the restless members of the class.

Still in Doubt

So at present the latest decision for tan is quite indefinite. Meanwhile bids and samples are being received and at a future date a definite color will be selected.

Miss Maude Soper, head of the history department at Glendale High school, and faculty supervisor of the committee on selection of trousers, is having the bidders send in samples of grey, blue, white and tan so as to satisfy the clamorous shouts of the dissatisfied, and to give the boys a chance to reconsider their hasty decision.

The matter, like all infamous scandal, has traveled the gossip around the school with the wings of a tornado. Everybody is discussing, guessing and debating the latest decision. Many are praising the choice while others are consoling and sympathizing with the seniors in their bereavement.

Seniors Put on Air

Such points of view and interpretations of choosing tan trousers as follows, are intended to represent the attitude of the various classes about the accident.

The seniors, putting on a very learned air, think thus: "We have at length determined that tan trousers would appear best since the choice is in better accord with our high standards of intellectual originality." (They really are serious about this.)

The very intelligent junior class assumes the following attitude: "You see, the senior must appear at least to have some sense and since brown or tan is the color of sagacity and wisdom, they thought that it would be more fitting to disguise themselves in a garb of the color of knowledge." (The juniors think they know what they're talking about but they really don't.)

Sophomores Opine

The all-knowing sophomores interpret the matter as follows: "According to all hereditary and bituminous traditions, the senior class must maintain effectively an appearance of such meritorious qualities of vituperation that they will without consciousness attract much lateral attention. This is their only purpose in choosing tan trousers. (Heaven bless 'em for their knowledge!)"

And the freshmen would say: "Leapin' Lena but them pants sure are the alligator's finger nail file! When we get big like them boys we'll wear tan pants too, if our mamas will let us." (The Frosh are so innocent this far!)

And yet stands the case, settled and unsettled. The whole school pities the undecided ones and yet many mirthful discussions would make the case seem to be a good joke on "them" seniors.

EDUCATORS TO MEET

SAN DIEGO, May 9.—With a view of forming permanent organization of school administrators San Bernardino, Imperial, Riverside and San Diego county educators will meet here May 15.

Glendale High To Test Class For Decathlon

By VIRGINIA EDWARDS
It has been announced that Glendale is to enter the Southern California Decathlon contest, which is to be held at Pomona. This will give the boys who have shown skill in the decathlon events in gym a chance to show their stuff, when the big event occurs, some time in the near future.

Virtually every school in Southern California is expected to participate in the decathlon fete. The ten events will be as follows: 100 yard dash, high jump, low hurdles, shot put, broad jump, base run, baseball throw and hit, and the football pass and kick. The best man in each event will be picked to represent Glendale high school at the meet, which is expected to come off some time in the near future.

NEWLYWED GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Luncheon, Shower Honors Mrs. Batten; Engagement Also Is Announced

By MARIAN DUEY

At a luncheon Tuesday, May 5, in the Harvard high school domestic science dining room, the women of the faculty enjoyed a delightful hour. The luncheon was combined with a surprise shower for Mrs. Mildred Vazay Batten. At the close of the luncheon the honoree was presented with a huge hamper filled with many dainty gifts appropriate to a bride.

At this time the announcement of the engagement of Jeanette Kussart to Ross V. Miller was made. Among the gifts was found a paper which read:

Not about the Miller's daughter On the Zuyder Zee, But about the doctor's daughter Write me poetree—

There's a Miller who adores her, A charming girl is she— And this doctor's lovely daughter A Miller's bride will be.

For every little birdie Singing in a tree Whispers that our Jeanette Is Ross's fiancée!

Miss Kussart is a teacher of Spanish at Harvard High and Ross V. Miller teaches general science.

Bowls of yellow roses, Shasta daisies, marigolds and California poppies made a charming background for this delightful luncheon which was served on individual trays decorated with sprays of orange blossoms.

SCHOOL FACULTY PICNIC SUCCESS

Fun And Eats Aplenty When Instructors Gather In Santa Monica Canyon

By DUGALD BLUE
Fun? You bet! Eats? Plenty! Where? At the Glendale high school faculty picnic held yesterday afternoon on the beach at Santa Monica Canyon with seventy-five teachers attending.

Mrs. Madge Stephenson, of the art department, had charge of the picnic. The "eats" committee was composed of Miss Charlotte Spier, of the sewing department, Miss Eleanor Plaw, of the art department, and Mrs. Ruth Schindler Jones, of the English department. Talk about appetites, G. U. H. S. students have nothing on their teachers!

After a much enjoyed wiener roast, games, such as indoor baseball, were enjoyed by all. Morgan Smith, machine shop instructor, Ross Miller, science instructor, and Park L. Turritt, chemistry instructor, deserve credit for the way in which they handled the entertainment.

Some of the "gang" stayed down at the beach until a late hour riding on roller coasters, eating hot dogs, cones, pop-corn and what not. Boy! Those teachers can eat! Others returned to Glendale about 8 o'clock to witness the senior play.

Defense, State, Primed For Shepherd's Trial

CHICAGO, May 9.—Both state and defense today concentrated their efforts on preparations for the murder trial of William D. Shepherd, now only ten days away. The two-day interlude in which Mrs. Julia Shepherd occupied the focal point of interest, was ended today following her formal release on $5000 bonds pending the action of a grand jury on a coroner's jury's recommendations that she be held as an accessory to the alleged murders of William Nelson McClintock, for which her husband is under indictment, and Mrs. Emma McClintock, Billy's mother.

CLASS YEAR '17' GETS WELCOME

Glendale Union High Play Pronounced Best Yet Given By Pupils

By GLENN CUNNINGHAM

"When you and I were seventeen and life and love were new."

How could anyone feel older than this romantic age after seeing Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" which was staged by the senior class of Glendale Union High school Thursday night and last night at the Broadway High auditorium? Even the orchestra played "Seventeen" between acts completing the effect.

The senior play, produced each year by the senior class, is always anticipated with pleasure as it ranks as one of the leading events of the school year. But this year it seems that the director and managers, the members of the cast, and the stage crew worked with but a single thought, to make this surpass all previous productions. And they succeeded for it is one of the most polished and elaborate stage productions ever produced in the high school auditorium.

Story of Youth

The story, by the famous delineator of American youth, Booth Tarkington, is one of universal appeal. Willie Baxter, an "adult" of seventeen years, falls madly and hopelessly in love with a fickle young thing who receives his affection with indifference. Of course, comedy is predominant throughout the play but there are parts of it also revealing pathos. One cannot help feeling sorry for the poor boy who is so serious in his belief that he is grown up and who gets his sympathy from his friends or parents.

The part of William Sylvanus Baxter is taken by Walton Andrews and is played excellently. The success of the play is, without doubt, largely due to his splendid portrayal of the title role. Credit must also be given Winifred Brewer for her impersonation of Lola Pratt, Willie's "baby-talk lady." Jack Alvord and Elsie Whitney do splendid work in the very difficult roles of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter.

Balance of Cast

Ralph Timothy as Genesis, the "eulud" gent, and his no 'count dog are responsible for a great many laughs. Each and every member of the cast deserve special mention for the manner in which they brought to life the characters of the novel just as they have been imagined by every reader.

Harold L. Brewster deserves special credit for the directing of this play. He has worked night and day with both the members of the cast and the stage crew, who have prepared very realistic settings for the occasion. The cast: Mr. Baxter, Jack Alvord; Jane Baxter, Phyllis Kuehn; Mrs. Baxter, Elsie Whitney; William Sylvanus Baxter, Walton Andrews; Johnnie Watson, Arthur Cornelius; May Parker, Elizabeth Brewer; Lola Pratt, Winifred Brewer; Genesis, Ralph Timothy; Joe Bullitt, Wesley Pomeroy; Mr. Parker, Wendell Beauchamp; George Grooper, Arthur Timothy; Ethel Boke, Pauline Miller; Wallie Banks, David Rollins; Mary Brooks, Beatrice Raeth.

FRENCH CLUB HAS FOREIGN VISITOR

Mme. Camer, Of Bordeaux Addresses Class In Native Tongue

By EDNA WARREN

Madame Camer of Bordeaux, France, was guest of the French club "Le Cercle Francais" last Wednesday, when she gave an interesting talk on Bordeaux. She speaks only seven words of English. "The Marcellaise" was sung by the club at the beginning of the program.

Two short plays, "Boule de Gomme" and "Le Cuvier" were given. The cast of "Boule de Gomme" follows: Boule de Gomme, Lucas Alden; Le Pere, Jared Wenger; Le Valet, Wesley Havermale; Le Mere, Frances Kubert; La Directrice du Sinema, Ted Dorrance.

"Le Cuvier" was presented by the following: Jacquot, Wesley Havermale; La Femme, Alice Hill; La Belle-mere, Ruama Coit. The program was in charge of Frances Kubert, and refreshments in charge of Ruth Marcus.

The ratio of British to foreign shipments of goods into South Africa has decreased considerably in the last year.

NEGLIGEEES TURN GEORGETTEWARD

Smart 'Breakfast In Room' Frocks for Honeymooners Trimmed With Fur

By AILEEN LAMONT

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
NEW YORK, May 9.—Two people it is important to impress are a new husband and a strange waiter. Therefore prospective honeymooners are searching eagerly for attractive negligees in which to breakfast in one's room on the wedding journey. Two-toned georgette, combined with marabou or some attractive summer fur, is in mode as are costumes of chiffon and lace. The brocade silks seemingly have passed with the cold weather.

Play or pay is an old sporting expression which is particularly applicable to short costumes at present. For women are sharply divided into two classes, those who take actual part in sports and those who merely pay for sport costumes in which to see the others and be seen. Among the first class, the two piece jumper costume of silk crepe with banding of contrasting colors, short sleeves and a V neck line with a jabot is becoming increasingly popular.

Pleading For Pleats

Women have been pleading for pleats, either more of them or wider folds, so that movement in the shorter skirts might be unimpeded and the silhouette still preserved. The latest answer to that request is the fan pleat. This is extremely wide at the bottom, the folds are narrow and it allows a wide freedom of movement. Most of the summer frocks are of washable silk. This intricate adornment requires extreme care in ironing.

"Yes, they got wings."

Whatever Eugene O'Neill's play may say about "God's chillun" having wings, only a few of the choicest Paris frocks are so equipped. Some have these adornments however. One late evening frock just imported from the Rue de La Paix is of black crepe georgette embroidered in steel beads. Two long wing-like draperies depend from the shoulders, one edge of the wings being attached to the dress from neck line to waist.

As the days lengthen, hat brims are growing wider. One of the newest importations has a crown of crinoline straw and a four-inch brim of black lace. The trimming consists of a side shaded rose of silk and velvet posed on the brim just above the left ear. The crown is both large and high.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Hiccoughs
Mrs. B.—Anyone is likely to have hiccoughs occasionally after hearty laughter.
Hiccough is a reflex irritation of a complex nature, causing a spasmodic contraction of the diaphragm and the rushing of the air through the vocal cords. This rushing of air through the vocal cords causes the characteristic sound—hic!
Occasionally, hiccough may be a serious symptom, but the average case is of no significance. Among the causes of simple hiccough, overeating with over-distention of the stomach, is probably the most frequent; under-nourishment and hunger, on the other hand, especially in babies and children, may also be causes. Many other simple causes are chills, coming from a warm temperature into a cold, swallowing air, excessive laughter. The ordinary hiccough lasts from a few minutes to an hour or so.
Treatment: The simple hiccough usually stops within a short time, with or without treatment. Some of the home remedies are: 1. Slipping very hot or very cold water. 2. Holding the breath and counting. 3. Standing on the hands or head (not so simple). 4. Pulling the legs up to the abdomen. 5. Pulling the tongue forward. 6. Blowing. 7. Having the attention distracted. 8. Deep pressure on the sides of the vertebrae in the neck (this is an endeavor to press upon the phrenic nerve which, among other things, has to do with the control of the respiratory muscles, including the diaphragm). 9. Applications to the pit of the stomach of mustard plasters or ice. 10. Throwing the head back, with fingers in both ears and swallowing water. 11. Gargling with a hot solution, such as quinine or quassia water. 12. Deep pressure over the eyebrows. 13. Drinking the juice of lemon with one-half teaspoonful of salt in it.
For the severe forms of hiccough a physician must be called. If he is a competent physician he will give a thorough examination to find out the cause.
But 75 Calories a Day Over Maintenance Means—!

Social : Clubs

Edited by KATHERINE V. SINKS

Club Will Meet

Junior auxiliary activity will be the dominating theme of the Tuesday Afternoon club luncheon on Tuesday. Mrs. George Franklin Orghet, chairman of the Juvenile Protective league, sponsored by the club, will be presiding hostess with the club president, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery. Luncheon speakers will be Mrs. Thomas A. Gould, Mrs. W. B. Scarborough, and Miss Elizabeth Ward. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 o'clock. In the afternoon Gretchen Hensel Copper, author and dramatic interpreter, will give "Little Plays in Old World Days," in costume of the period. The program will include two plays of eighteenth-century London, and one of high renaissance Italy. The latter, "Madonna," is from a group written by Mrs. Copper dealing with the loves of the old masters.

May Breakfast

Echo park, Los Angeles, provided the setting yesterday morning for a breakfast, enjoyed by twenty-six members of the Martha section of the Women's Auxiliary of First Congregational church. Mrs. Hannah Lauderdale and Mrs. Harriet Nichols were chairmen of the affair. Under their direction the breakfast table was prettily decorated in yellow and white. A miniature Maypole was the centerpiece. Golden California poppies were the flowers used. Mrs. H. B. Franklin, chairman of the section, presided at the table. Features were a short business hour, a reading by Mrs. Helen A. Hanscom and games.

At Emerick Home

Mrs. Luella Emerick of 464 West Elk street was hostess all day yesterday to Sunshine club of Ionia court, Order of Amaranth. Mrs. Grace Jackson, president, was in charge of the business meeting, when plans were made to invite members' husbands and friends to luncheon, June 12. This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gertrude McMullen, 336 Milford street, with luncheon served at 12:30 o'clock. A covered-dish luncheon was served at noon yesterday, covers being arranged for twenty. Five-hundred was played during the afternoon.

Eastern Star

Three candidates were initiated last night at the meeting of Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of Eastern Star at Masonic temple. Mrs. Mae Warlick, worthy matron, presided. New members initiated were: Misses Gracie and Henrietta Manuel and Leola Martin. Mrs. Sadie McPherson, who had charge of Glen Eyrie "Gala Day" April 24, gave a good report on the bazaar. Announcement was made that the annual ball will be May 29.

Club Breakfast

The emblem bridge breakfast planned by Mrs. Ernest A. Carr, chairman of emblems of the Tuesday Afternoon club, is to be held at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, instead of at the home of Mrs. Arthur Campbell, as previously announced. All club women owning club federation emblems can make reservations for the affair with Mrs. A. A. Barton at the clubhouse.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Pierce of 328 West Elk street, celebrated their fifty-first wedding anniversary yesterday at their home. No celebration was planned. Mrs. Pierce has been confined to her home for the past ten days by illness. Their son, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Pierce and daughter, Patricia, were present. One year ago, on their fiftieth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce celebrated in Florence, Italy.

Present Play

Members of the Mutual Improvement association of Latter Day Saints church, are planning to present the play, "The Little Cloudhopper," on Monday, May 18, at Knights of Pythias hall, South Brand boulevard and Park avenue. The play is being given to raise funds to send a delegate to the church convention at Salt Lake City in June.

Name Committees

Appointment of committees for the bazaar, to be held this fall, will be made at the meeting of the Women's Relief society of the Latter Day Saints Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Knights of Pythias hall, South Brand boulevard and Park avenue. Mrs. Margaret Farnsworth, president, will have charge.

Shrine Will Meet

Omar Shrine, No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, will meet at 8 o'clock at Masonic Temple, South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Libbie Cutting, acting worthy high priestess, will preside. Balloting and practice will be held. Evelyn G. Pierce will be noble prophetess.

Court to Drill

Drill practice under direction of deputy grand lecturer will be held Monday night by Ionia court, Order of Amaranth, at Masonic temple, South Brand boulevard. Practice will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Receives Honor

Re-election of Mrs. Roberta T. Young to the curatorship; election of Mrs. W. W. Wilkinson as secretary; plans for the annual luncheon and a delightful Massenet program were features of the meeting yesterday of the music department of the Tuesday Afternoon club. Mrs. Young has proven a most capable curator and admiration and appreciation by her unanimous re-election.

The very artistic program enjoyed yesterday was arranged by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell. In introduction she gave a most interesting sketch of Massenet's life. Later she introduced three talented artists of Glendale: Edith Sinclair Lemon, soprano and protegee of Ellen Beach Yaw; Henry Raphael, violinist, and Miss Mae Burnham Orcutt, pianist, who served as accompanist.

Mrs. Lemon possesses a voice of rich quality. In her songs she demonstrated her ability as a real artist. She sang "Autumn Thoughts," "Hungarian," "Folk Song" and "Nightingale." Mr. Raphael played "Meditation" and "Thais" and "Elegie" beautifully. Hostesses of the afternoon were Mesdames William Kirkby, Eleanor Squires and G. H. Horne.

The next program of the department, Friday afternoon, May 22, will be given by Wesley Kuhnle, pianist, and Mrs. Howard Cavanah, contralto. Mrs. Warren Roberts, former curator, is to serve as chairman for the annual luncheon. Luncheon tickets are to be one dollar each. Mrs. F. H. Wallace, Glendale, is in charge of reservations. Other sub-chairmen named by Mrs. Roberts are Mrs. F. S. Card, floral decorations; Mrs. G. H. Horne, place cards; Mrs. Charles Marlenee, favors; Mrs. Enona Hopkins, program; Mesdames Mattison Boyd Jones, F. McG. Kelley, Frank Arnold, Nathan Rigdon, Eva Cunningham, Edwin Cleophas, Alexander Mitchell, E. W. Kinney, Charles A. Parker, L. N. Hagood.

With Miss Fuller

Miss Irene Fuller of 356 West Patterson avenue, was hostess yesterday at the meeting of Nimble Fingers Sewing club of Mary Jane Gillett tent, Daughters of Veterans. Noon luncheon was served for sixteen by Mesdames Dorothy Van Wie and Cora Jones. The afternoon was spent sewing. Special guests were: Mrs. Margaret Stevenson and Mrs. L. L. Bell and Comrades C. R. Norton, T. M. Barrett, E. W. Emmick and F. C. Fuller. Mrs. Hattie Tiffany, secretary, read a letter from Mrs. Edna Wadsworth, president of the memorial home board, telling details of the home, which has been built at Sawtelle by Daughters of Veterans.

Hear Miss Judd

Miss Caroline Judd of Santa Monica, national J. O. C. president, was guest of honor and speaker last night at the meeting of J. O. C. class of Pacific avenue Methodist church, at the home of Mrs. Margaret Stevenson, 364 Burchett street. Miss Judd spoke on the subject "The Joy of Salvation." Mrs. Ida Artiss, president, directed a short business meeting. Plans were made for a food sale May 16 at Porter's Furniture store, West Broadway and South Orange street. Red carnations were used for decorations. Refreshments were served to the thirty-three women present.

Hosts at Frolic

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Karl Boeckmann of 679 West Arden street, are entertaining friends tonight at the "Studio Electricians" Frolic at the Blithmore hotel, Los Angeles. Their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Lester Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. John Van Meter Summers, Herbert F. Boeckmann of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Boeckmann of Burbank; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wolfe and Miss Eleanor Montgomery of Glendale.

Attend Banquet

Mrs. Emily Hughes Wright, Mrs. George Franklin Orghet and Katherine V. Sinks, club editor of The Glendale Evening News, members of the Southern California Women's Press club, attended the annual banquet last night at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles. Mrs. J. L. Stanley of the staff of The Glendale Evening News was a guest at the affair.

Give Luncheon

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Camerer of 319 West Garfield avenue, were hosts yesterday at luncheon for Mrs. Lowell Chamberlain and her sister, Miss Vimont of Pasadena, and Mrs. Clifford Hughes of Glendale.

It is time to turn our attention to the problem of repelling and destroying flies, house ants, and other pests which appear, or greatly multiply, in the warmer months of the year.
Flies: Every housekeeper should write to Washington, D. C., for the free farmers' bulletin number 1408, published by the U. S. department of agriculture and entitled, "The House Fly and How to Suppress It." In this small booklet you will find directions for ridding the house of this pest by the use of fly-traps, fly-papers and poisons, with special emphasis laid on the explanation of methods of eliminating breeding places and preventing the breeding of flies.
House Ants: The woman who is troubled by this pest should write to Washington (same address as given above) for the free farmers' bulletin number 740, entitled, "House Ants," which not only warns the housekeeper against leaving food about on shelves or other open spaces, thus attracting the ants, but which also describes methods of killing the ants with poisoned baits and of attracting them to sweetened baits (such as a sponge moistened with sweetened water) and then destroying them by plunging into hot water or pouring boiling water over the ant-swarmed bait.
Carpet Beetles: Farmers' bulletin number 1346 entitled "Carpet Beetles and Their Control" is also free to anybody who will write to Washington for it.

Wasps: When wasps gain access to an attic or shed, destroy them by placing on a high beam a saucer of water containing one teaspoon each of sugar and formalin (poison), which attracts and kills them.
Water Bugs: Pour one cup of kerosene oil into the sink drain once a week, do not run water down the drain for one hour, then flush with a gallon of boiling water.
Roaches: I do not like to advise a poison for killing this pest because it must necessarily be used within the reach of children and animal pests to say nothing of its accidentally getting into food! A harmless roach trap is made by putting a slice of bread in a shallow basin with well-greased sides; darken the room for an hour, then rush in and pour kerosene oil on the gathered pests, or boiling water.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Bright Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

CHICAGO, May 9.—The hotel is a kind of illuminated index to city life," according to a survey made by Dr. Norman S. Hayner, sociology department of the University of Chicago.

He adds that increasingly popular apartment hotel life is giving "the family circle" its death blow.

"The characteristics of hotel life—impersonality, conventionalized manners, formality, fashion and 'front,' casual relations, freedom from responsibility—all are characteristics of city life," the survey states.

"From one point of view hotel life attracts the type of human being who seeks novelty, excitement and new experience.

"From another it stimulates the person who lives in this atmosphere and tends to make him cynical and blasé."

Discussing hotel dwellers, the study says that "the woman of leisure who lives there probably is more affected by the hotel environment than her husband because the husband usually spends much of his time away from the hotel."

"Since a person in a large hotel is judged almost entirely by the 'front' he puts up he must dress well or suffer from the disdainful attitude of the other guests," the survey continues.

Bank Head Acquitted Of Contempt Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Contempt proceedings brought against John F. Johnson, state superintendent of banks, in connection with his refusal to answer certain questions at a deposition hearing, were dismissed by Superior Judge Louis H. Ward. Attorneys representing Johnson said that Johnson had refused to answer certain questions only because he had been sued as an individual and not as superintendent of banks. The suit in which Johnson figures is in connection with the purchase of the Valley Bank of Fresno by the Bank of Italy and the Pacific-Southwest bank of Los Angeles. Johnson, it was announced, will give his deposition on May 19.

Phone Operators Flee When Station Ignites

PORTLAND, Ore., May 9.—Two hundred girl operators fled from a downtown station of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. here when fire suddenly broke out in a multiple fuse box at the main exchange in the basement. None was injured. Telephone lines in the business section, numbering about 14,000, were immediately put out of service. Pungent smoke clouds poured out of the basement and this added to the difficulties of the firefighters. Damage to the building is negligible.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

COMPILED FOR GLENDALE EVENING NEWS READERS
Copyright, 1925, By The George Matthew Adams Service

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE
The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

Woman Charged With Mail Fraud, Released

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—After being held in the county jail for three months, Madame Edith Madia Lessing, charged with sending alleged obscene literature through the mails, was released on her own recognizance until July. A pamphlet entitled "The Syllabus" was the literature alleged to have been sent through the postoffice.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, May 9.—Preliminary drawings for new school buildings to face the recently-acquired property on Grinnell drive to be the junior high school have been accepted by the school board. Plans provide for a two-story unit of ten classrooms to cost $65,000. The completed structure eventually will contain thirty class rooms, to be built in units.

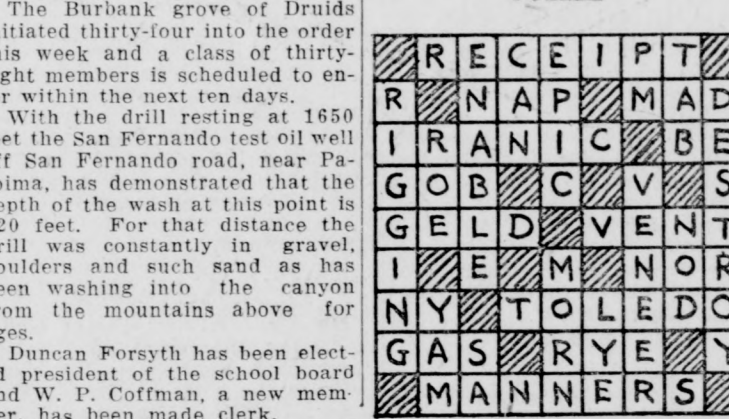

Births outstripped deaths in Burbank during the past month, with a total of twenty-two babies and only nine deaths. Since January 1 there have been 118 births and fifty-five deaths.

Work has been started on erection of a new business block on Olive avenue near San Fernando road that will cost $10,000.

The Burbank grove of Druids initiated thirty-four into the order this week and a class of thirty-eight members is scheduled to enter within the next ten days.

With the drill resting at 1650 feet the San Fernando test oil well off San Fernando road, near Pacoima, has demonstrated that the depth of the wash at this point is 320 feet. For that distance the drill was constantly in gravel, boulders and such sand as has been washing into the canyon from the mountains above for ages.

Duncan Forsyth has been elected president of the school board and W. P. Coffman, a new member, has been made clerk.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BAWLY'S SPLASH

Bully and Bawly No Tail, the two frog boys, hopped past Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one bright, sunny day, when the May flowers were filling the air with sweet perfume.

"I feel so jolly and happy, don't you, Bawly?" asked Bully.

"Yes," croaked Bawly, "I do! I wish we could go hopping through the woods with Uncle Wiggily as we used to, and have an adventure. But I suppose since he got married, and his new wife brought with her so many little rabbits, he won't go off with us any more."

"Maybe not," said Bully. "But it would do no harm to ask. I don't believe Uncle Wiggily will forget his old friends."

The two frog boys hopped to the hollow stump bungalow, where Uncle Wiggily lived, and knocked on the door. The old rabbit gentleman himself opened it, his pink nose twinkling in a happy way. He looked at the frog boys and said:

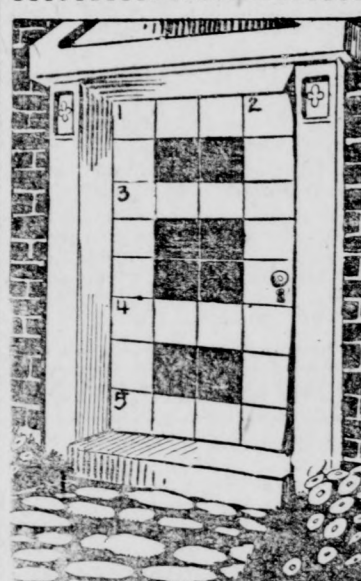

"Hello, Bully and Bawly!"

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" they croaked. "Don't you want to come adventuring with us as you used to?"

"Hurray! Hurray! Indeed, I do!" cried Mr. Longears, dancing about. "As it happens, you came at just the right time," he said.

"My new wife has taken all the little rabbits to a moving picture show. I stayed home and I'm glad I did, for now I can go adventuring with you. Come on, boys—this is like old times!"

CROSS WORD PUZZLE FOR YOUNGSTERS

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across

Word 3. To turn over clumsily as a fish does on land.
Word 5. One who tells untruths.

Running Down

Word 1. A spring flower.
Word 2. One who reports proceedings for newspapers.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED

Heavy Guard Watches For Prisoner 'Escape'

SANTA BARBARA, May 9.—A heavy guard was thrown around the courtroom here to forestall a break for liberty by E. C. Rimassa, Okla. bandit, who boasted he would escape from jail. Rimassa is charged with holding up and robbing a store owned by Mrs. A. W. Muters. Following the bandit's arrest a letter he had written to a pal in which he requested a gun to "shoot his way out" was apprehended by authorities.

Bandits 'Cuss' When $13 Is Sum Of Loot

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Poking an automatic pistol out of the window of a small coupe in which they were riding, two unmasked bandits held up and robbed Clyde Bucha, oil station attendant, and escaped with $13, according to police reports. The bandits cursed their victim because he didn't have more money.

EASTERN TEAMS VICTORS ON ROAD

Yesterday's Results Change
Aspect Of League Race
In Fans' Figuring

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, May 9.—Out in the great west where the spaces are open and men are sometimes ball players, they haven't had a world series contender since the Cleveland Indians won in 1920 and if the first of the inter-sectional clashes means anything, they still may be minus the desired prize at the end of the 1923 campaign. Only in the inter-sectional meetings can strength and weakness be established and their inaugural yesterday saw the east win seven of the eight games played. This result might be reversed today, tomorrow or some day next week, but it is nevertheless not without its significance.

The Yankees, for example, couldn't beat any club in the east, but their first day beyond the Alleghenies saw them run up a 12 to 0 score on the St. Louis Browns who had been doing pretty well against their western rivals. The Red Sox also won by a top heavy score from Detroit and it is a matter of previous record that the Sox beat their eastern rivals only five times since the start of the season.

If these opening skirmishes furnish a true line on the strength of the two sections, they would appear to account for the rather surprising showing of the Indians, who were expected to finish in the second division but who have hovered in or about the lead since opening day. The Indians won twelve out of seventeen games from the Tigers, Browns and White Sox, but lost yesterday to the Athletics, who thereupon went into first place in the league race.

The White Sox were the only western winners yesterday, nipping the Senators' right at the wire. They have played commendable ball from the outset and may yet prove the dark horse of the campaign.

As a matter of fact, clubs as pre-race contenders, particularly western entries, have not improved between seasons in ratio with the obvious betterment of some teams in the east. The Pirates broke up their remarkable infield and yesterday finished far back of the Phillies, who no longer fly a doormat from their flagpole.

The Cubs were weakened by the loss of Maranville and Grigsby, and therefore cannot be said to be a better prospect than the 1924 outfit. The Reds are a probable first division entry, but not a pennant winner, their several weaknesses being too obvious. Of course the Pirates do not belong where they are, neither do the Cardinals. But unless they soon begin to show something more than the right idea, it will be too late to show anything beyond a deficit.

Bay City Man Upsets Trap Shooting Marks

DEL MONTE, Cal., May 9.—L. S. Hawhurst of San Francisco, who has made a Roman holiday of the California Indians' trapshooting fiesta up to the present, had menaced for the first time when R. C. Reed, last year's winner, shot a brilliant 97 yesterday to pick up 2 points on the leader, whose total score of 290 is five strokes better than Reed's 285.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.
NEW YORK, May 9.—Spring football practice in the south discloses an alluring outlook at Alabama, Vanderbilt, University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, Washington and Lee and the University of North Carolina.

Most of the material that was available last fall will be on hand in September and all of the colleges above named are rich in men who will be sophomores next year.

Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia tried a new expedient this year which has so many virtues that it will most likely be copied by southern colleges in 1926. They held spring practice during the month of February and the first two weeks in March.

The weather in the far south at this time of the year is ideal for football practice and the players seemed to get more out of it than they have in the hot weather of past springs.

This plan also permits men who specialize in baseball and track as well as football to work with the gridiron squad and thus not only keep in touch with the game but fit themselves for the regular spring sports.

Colleges that went in for practice at the usual time were handicapped because of the fact that in most southern colleges the baseball team works on the field that contains the gridiron and in a great many instances football coaches are also instructed in track or baseball.

By setting spring practice ahead these drawbacks can be obviated and no doubt the example of Tech and Georgia will be generally followed next year.

Very few coaching changes are noted in Dixie. Dave Morey, the old Dartmouth player, who has been coaching with success at Middlebury, New England, will be at the helm at Auburn this year.

Georgia Tech has been making fine progress in completing her stadium at Grant Field this spring.

When the football season comes around she will be able to seat thirty thousand spectators in the concrete section with accommodations for an additional six thousand in temporary stands. The full capacity of the field will be utilized in all probability at the Notre Dame, Georgia and Auburn games.

BOWLING SCORES

The triple tie for first place in the Service club league was broken last night when the Optimists No. 1 took three straight from the Kiwanis club. A. L. Baird, past president of the Kiwanis club, was the only player to pass the two-century mark, and also carried away honors on high total, 190-174-204-568.

In a City League match the Carlocks, league leaders, took three straight games from the Union Oilers. Morgan of the winners rolled 264 for high score and 649 for high total. The scores:

DUGID TAKES TWO FALLS IN MATCH

Throws Aylward In Event
Staged By Kenneth Dix
For Legion Show

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.
Wallace Dugid, Glendale wrestler who was given the silent go-by in the way of challenges when Wayne Munn held the heavyweight championship, and who is receiving the same sort of treatment at the hands of Zyszkow present champion, won two straight falls over "Whitey" Aylward in a finish match staged at the American Legion show last night by Kenneth Dix. Aylward is instructor at the Southwest Athletic club.

Dugid took the first fall in 34 minutes, 8 seconds with a Japanese double arm lock. The second fall came after 16 minutes and 3 seconds of intensive wrestling in which both men pitted their strength and science against each other. A combination wrist lock and head scissor brought the second fall to Dugid.

Both mat artists were in top form last night, and thrilled the spectators with an exhibition of science seldom seen in a wrestling ring. Time after time Aylward extracted himself from some dangerous holds, to swing around and clamp a punishing hold on his opponent. While the actual time on the mat did not set any high figure, both men were on the verge of physical exhaustion as a result of the fast and intense work.

The match was arranged by Kenneth Dix as the feature attraction of the open meeting sponsored by Glendale post No. 127, American Legion, when the Legionnaires were hosts to all four service men and their friends in the city. It was staged at 335 North Brand boulevard, and the match, which would have rated a $10 top in any man's town, was gratis on the part of Mr. Dix, Mr. Dugid and Mr. Aylward.

Dugid has appeared in a number of matches in eastern cities. Shortly after Munn acquired the title by flopping Lewis for a whirlpool, Dugid began camping on the Kansas City's lad's trail. He challenged Munn by letter, telegrams and verbal deft, but the challenges were not accepted. Now Dugid is after Zyszkow, both in the amateur and professional ranks. He was outwitted by about 20 pounds last night, but what he lacked in weight, he more than made up in science, as evidenced by his crafty manner of escaping from what appeared certain pinning holds.

High School Teams In Interscholastic Meet

PALO ALTO, Cal., May 9.—California's best clashed on Stanford university's oval today in the annual California interscholastic federation track meet. Williams of Inglewood and Hulsman of San Jose were expected to hang up new records in the pole vault and Vruh of El Monte was after a new mile record.

Eames of Hollywood and Payne of Long Beach were outstanding bidders for a possible new mark in the 220-yard hurdles. Olson of Concord was regarded as a probable record breaker in the javelin event. Fleishacker of Menlo and Patton of Riverside were expected to fight it out in the shot put, throwing. Riverside, San Diego and Manual Arts of Los Angeles were regarded as the leading contenders for the meet's honors as the southerners were reported at the peak of form.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.
NEW YORK, May 9.—Louisville sportsmen have begun search for an attractive bout for Derby day. To date nothing appears to have been arranged although there is a chance that Kid Kaplan, the featherweight champion, may accept an invitation to meet Al Corbett of Cleveland upon that famous occasion.

Easterners will get a good glance at the Cleveland boy in any event next month; for he will appear in Boston in a bout against Red Chapman, the upcoming lad who recently pasted Johnny Dundee and Mascart.

When Dempsey returns from Europe it is on the cards that New Yorkers who have been clamoring for a Dempsey-Willis bout will be asked to show their cards.

Amid all the talk there has not as yet been made a legitimate copper-riveted offer that Kearns, Dempsey & Co. could take hold of.

Some city politicians in New York would like very much to see the fight held here but it is not so certain how the state politicians would take it and with Rickard growing cautious as to bidding for the bout there is no likelihood of any great rush of promoters to stage the affair.

Dempsey will be here again the latter part of June and it is on the cards that he will be interested in a Labor day battle against some good man.

The trouble with a Willis fight is that both principals would have to be paid a large sum of money and despite the talk there is no assurance that a mixed bout would pack the big arena. A contender for the world's heavyweight title has got to have a picturesque personality, like Carpenter, or Firpo. Strange as it may seem, the mere prospect of a good fight doesn't draw the bumper crowd. It draws the fight fans, yes, but when you begin to deal in million dollar battles men and women have to be drawn to the arena who seldom if ever go to a bout.

FRY'S PHYSICAL FACTS

By PROF. BYRON G. FRY
Health Expert and Champion Bag
Written For The Evening News
Q. Would you please tell me how I may strengthen and build up the muscles of my body? Miss J. P.

Any muscle, or group of muscles, can be strengthened or built up by the proper exercise, which should be progressive, that is to say exercise the muscle or group of muscles lightly at first and gradually increase the resistance as the muscles become stronger.

There are many ways of resisting the muscles to strengthen them. One of the best exercises for an all around development is swimming. Where it is possible to swim two or three times per week and make it strenuous, after becoming used to it, why a person will begin to notice results very quickly.

Punching the aerial punching bag is also a body developer, and will quicken the eyes and make them strong and clear, as the eyes depend upon muscles to function. The eye muscles must act quickly to follow the punching bag in its course of travel, in a circular motion around the post that aerial punching bags are anchored to. This muscular action will strengthen the eyes very quickly and has often eliminated the use of glasses.

There is also an exercise on the market that will develop any and all muscles of the body. This exercise is a patented progressive type of a device that can be instantly adjusted to fit the strength of the weakest person or the strongest man. It requires very little strength to adjust it, a small child can do it easily with little effort.

It has the feature of holding any adjustment that you may set until it is changed again, so that you may take the same amount of exercise each day. It is known as the "Keep Fit Exercise" and sold at all sporting goods stores.

SPURGEON GOING STRONG IN RACE

Cleveland's Third Baseman
Proving Big Factor In Winning Games

By JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.
NEW YORK, May 9.—Baseball fans who peruse the minor league records for some sign on Spurgeon, the current third baseman of the Cleveland Americans, won't find any—unless they look in the "J" column. His minor league name was Jackson and he was transferred from New Orleans to Cleveland in July, 1924.

But, whatever the name, Cleveland's third baseman is contributing considerably to the team's success and has thrown something of a scare into Lutzke, the player who started the season at third for the Indians.

Lutzke has the record which "Jackson" made at New Orleans. It is not so hard to understand his present speed. Last season, as shortstop for the southern team, he whacked the ball for .278 and fielded .940. Shortstops never get such high figures as other infielders, and .940 looks pretty good. New Orleans begged that Jackson be permitted to stay, as the Crescent City had a chance. Eventually Memphis captured the Southern association championship and New Orleans had to be satisfied with third place.

Jackson didn't accumulate any record with Cleveland last season. He merely looked them over, under the name of Spurgeon. He got his chance when Lutzke became temporarily incapacitated and showed himself possessed of everything requisite to a good third baseman. He has batted around .300 and has fielded admirably. He accepted eight chances on his fifteenth game in the big show.

Third basemen have become ravenous for those eight-or-better records this season and are knocking old time records far away in that respect. But not many who are doing it are novices in the big circuits.

Cleveland has been knocking the predictions of the early birds right and left, for good and sufficient reasons, one of which is Jackson-Spurgeon. Ninety-five per cent of the seers didn't give Cleveland a look-in for the first division, but the club hasn't been out of it so far.

With a winning combination now going, it is a question whether Lutzke will get his job back—at least until a break comes in which Spurgeon figures. Lutzke isn't likely to hit .300 unless he amends the errors of his swing at bat.

When it is figured that Lutzke might do for some other teams, the Philadelphia nationals, for instance, there seems to be no justice in baseball. It's just an old pin cushion with the points sticking out.

Spurgeon has had four errors since the season began and that isn't much for a young player who has evidently been on his toes, and who, with Knobe and Fawcett, has put some speed into the Cleveland infield which didn't always run around in 1924 exactly like an antelope on an alfalfa jag.

He hasn't stolen any bases but none of the Clevelanders seem to have done anything in that direction with the exception of Knobe who has stolen the large total of two for the season.

SHARKEY SIGNS UP

BOSTON, May 9.—Jim Meloney of South Boston, heavyweight, and Jack Sharkey of Brighton, conqueror of Jack Renault, today signed articles of agreement for a ten-round battle for the heavyweight championship of New England. The battle will be staged at Braves' field on June 5 under the direction of the Crosscup-Pishon post, American Legion. Both boxers will receive a purse of $7000.

The Glendale Merchants, composed of players selected by Manager M. R. Bacom and left to hold the fort while the first string of players is touring eastern cities, will have a real battle on their hands. The Pasadena Paints are formidable factors in semi-pro circles and will provide a real struggle for the local lads.

GLENDALE DROPS GAME TO CITRUS

Ragged Playing Responsible For Defeat As Lemons
Hit Smith Hard

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.
The Glendale Dynamiters lost the fourth and next-to-last game of the season yesterday on Broadway field, when they dropped an uninteresting tilt marked with loose playing to the Citrus Lemons, 10 to 5.

The Lemons scored four runs in the first and thereby forged into the lead and stayed there for the complete tilt. Although the Dynamiters tried to draw up to their rivals, a new batting onslaught of the visitors discouraged their attacks. Charley Smith walked Lindsay, the Citrus lead-off batter, to begin the game, and Ingram and Williams filled the bases when each got singles. Hawes practically won the game for the visitors when he socked the pelota over left-field fence for a home run.

The Dynamiters scored twice in their part of the first on a pass and three errors in a row, pulled by Ingram, the Citrus third-sacker. However, the Lemons pulled their lead out of danger when Rudman singled and came home on Shiffer's long swat to left-center, which hit the fence, eluding the fielders, and went down as the second circuit swat of the day.

Core Two More
Glendale came back with a pair in the last of the third. A walk, and three consecutive singles by Muff, Ardoin and Clark, did the work. In the sixth the locals became really ambitious and scored one marker, which brought them within one of tying the score. Charley Smith was safe at first when Williams winged his infield hit over first base in a useless effort to retire Smith. Singles by Lovell and Thompson sent the Glendale chucker across the platter in the fifth and final run of the locals. With men on second and third in this inning the Red and Black chances went a-glimmering when F. Smith drove to D. Holmes, who doubled Thompson off second. Muff died via the pop-out route.

Two runs in the seventh and another pair in the ninth sewed up the tilt for Citrus. By the virtue of the win yesterday the Lemons gain second place, while the Dynamiters drop back into something like third or fourth berth. This defeat ruins Glendale's chances of tying for first or even cinch second place, as there is only one more game to play, and the best they can do is to tie.

For second place, provided Citrus beats Alhambra next week and the Dynamiters whitewash Covina. If Citrus does beat Alhambra, the school from Azusa will be tied for first place in the league and a play-off may be necessary.

DOUBLE BILL AT PARK ON SUNDAY

Local Letter Carriers Meet
L. A. Team; Merchants
Play Pasadena

Tomorrow will be bargain day at the ball park on San Fernando road. Local fans will have the opportunity to witness two games for the price of one, the first game at 2 o'clock between the Glendale letter carriers and the Los Angeles Merchants, while at 4 o'clock the Glendale Merchants will hook up with the Pasadena Paints.

The game between the postal employees will be the opening contest of the Southern California Postal Workers' league, and fitting ceremonies have been arranged. The first ball will be hurled by Roy Selover, captain of the local team, with George Hallett, assistant postmaster, behind the plate. Mayor Harry MacBain will try a Babe Ruth stunt with his trusty bat.

The Glendale Merchants, composed of players selected by Manager M. R. Bacom and left to hold the fort while the first string of players is touring eastern cities, will have a real battle on their hands. The Pasadena Paints are formidable factors in semi-pro circles and will provide a real struggle for the local lads.

MISSISSIPPI VAL

STEP BY STEP

The early dream of W. S. Sparr, that some day the Verdugo Valley and Hills would be the habitation of many men, was not a plan or scheme of his but rather his abiding faith in the ultimate great development of Los Angeles and Glendale. His dream became his inspiration and its realization became his hobby.

Step by step the village of yesterday has bloomed forth into the far-flung beautiful City of Glendale, encompassing Mr. Sparr's great properties and, in their heart, in the heart of the Verdugos, has sprung up a city within a city---

SPARR HEIGHTS

The Realization of a Dream

Beautiful homes house families, and more are building. Hundreds are planning because nature endowed the Verdugo Valley and its adjacent hills with health-giving, invigorating climate. Living eleven hundred to two thousand feet above the sea adds zip and zest and color. A wonderful place to live.

Words fail to paint the picture I want to place before the reader of this message. I can only suggest that he motor out to the Oakmont Country Club and see for himself this wonderful home land.

Oakmont Country Club Estates, the ultra in Sparr Heights and in all the Southland, border the Country Club on the west and extend back into "Those Green Verdugo Hills" made world famous through the eloquent pen of our friend, John Steven McGroarty. My one ambition is to create, in this latest developed section of Sparr Heights, the most beautiful residential park in all the Southland.

LADY ASQUITH RAPS LLOYD GEORGE

Margot's Newest Book Also Condemns Condition Of American Travel

LONDON, May 9.—American ways and wives and husbands came in for unglorious handling in Margot Asquith's newest book, "Places and Persons" which today has caused rude revision of the belief the Asquith-Lloyd George feud had been settled two years ago.

This excerpt was quoted by astonished reviewers: "Mr. Lloyd George's absence of political principle and incapacity for straight dealing and his pathetic ignorance of foreign affairs brought a dazzling career to seclusion."

Lady Oxford and Asquith, as the author's title now appears, condemned travel conditions in America and in her reflections on her American visit gave one reviewer reason to believe the book would bring "pained wonderment in the American press."

"American women are beautiful to look at and elegantly dressed," said Margot, "but their husbands, when not of the needy foreign aristocracy are usually divorced, discharged or disposed of in some way."

IMPERIAL VALLEY FEARING FLOODS

Twenty-five Years Ago This Region Was Desert Land, Now Winter Garden

By STUART N. LAKE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

SAN DIEGO, May 9.—Imperial valley, the erstwhile desert waste which has become the winter garden of America, appears to have weathered the spring flood that menaced it, but valley ranchers are wondering about mid-June, when the crest of the annual flood is due. By virtue of the very topography which has made possible its transformation from a desert into a garden spot, Imperial valley lies in perennial dread of the flood waters of the Colorado river. Ten miles to the east of the valley—which itself is a 600,000 acre expanse lying 125 miles inland from the sea but ranging in altitude from sea level to two hundred feet below—the mighty torrent which gouged the Grand Canyon through the Rocky mountains flows toward the gulf of lower California at an elevation of approximately 150 feet above the valley's heart. The intervening terrain offers as natural resistance to a flood nothing of greater strength than sand.

Flood in 1901
Twenty-five years ago the Colorado could and did overflow unbridled and unrestrained for in those days the census taker used a zero to indicate the district's population and a similar cipher for an appraisal of its wealth. Since 1901 $10,000,000 have been spent to protect Imperial valley from the Colorado floods. The district budget calls for an annual outlay of $500,000 to keep the protective system in repair.

Today the inundation of Imperial valley would affect every American who eats. Sixty-five thousand car loads of foodstuffs worth $50,000,000 went out of the Imperial valley in 1924 to the tables of American homes. Fifty thousand American men, women and children live in this desert which they have made blossom as the rose under the present system.

The dikes and levees which are the valley's only protection against floods, are on Mexican territory, not under direct control of the Americans who are dependent upon them and who, incidentally, have put up every cent expended for their construction and repair.

Adequately to protect the valley there must be a dam across the upper Colorado at which flood waters can be controlled, and just below a canal entirely on American soil and under American control. Imperial valley ranchers have neither means nor power to dam the Colorado without federal consent and assistance. For years they have been urging that such a dam be constructed at Boulder canyon.

They learned their lesson in 1909 when the make-shifts gave way and the Colorado jumped its channel a full twenty miles. Before it could be turned back, hundreds of thousands of dollars were lost, lives sacrificed and embryo cities sunk into the sands. Ever since, Imperial valley has been hoping that federal aid would come before another flood.

CONSTRUCTION WORK LOSES NO TIME

Southland Boasts Consistent Labor In This Line For Ten Years

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Southern California has lost less time in construction work on account of inclement weather than has any locality in the United States, according to Southern California Business, the official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

This ought to prove of interest to contractors whose work lies out of doors. A table containing computations just issued by the division of building and housing, department of commerce, from the United States weather bureau records and by the Southern California chapter, Associated General Contractors of America, shows that practically no time has been lost over a period of ten years by workmen on account of weather conditions in this locality. Conflicting records to cities for the sake of convenience of comparison with other sections, it is shown that St. Paul suffered more through rainfall or freezing weather during a ten-year period of which records were kept, the figures being as follows:

City	Working days lost
St. Paul	109.9
Denver	85.6
Boston	80.7
Chicago	78.9
New York	73.1
St. Louis	65.3
Atlanta, Ga.	33.7
New Orleans	11.6
San Francisco	6.5
Los Angeles	4.1

This is the average loss of time each year over a ten-year period. It will be seen from this that the Los Angeles average (which is also the average for the remainder of Southern California), has been only a fraction more than four days each year lost time on account of weather conditions, while for St. Paul the average loss each year was but a trifle less than 114 days, with other cities of the United States running between these two.

Chart Prepared
A chart prepared by the same authorities discloses the fact that during the ten-year period, from April 1 to October 31—the most favorable part of the year in all sections of the country—shows a wide variance in loss of time on account of weather conditions. It is stated that Atlanta, Ga., lost an average of 6.1 days between April 1 and October 31 with 2.9 lost close second, showing a loss of 6.31 days, while the loss in San Francisco was only 1.26 and Los Angeles the infinitesimal fraction of .56 of a day, or a trifle more than half a day.

P-T-A

Acacia
Celebration of the tenth anniversary of organization has held last night at Glendale Intermediate school by Acacia Mothers' club, P-T-A. A large crowd joined with association officers and members in celebration of the event. The ten years' work of officers and members has been featured by co-operation among teachers and parents. A children's recital was presented by the pupils, and additional numbers were furnished by the "Acacia Four," Berle and Ruth Mitchell, Francis and Kathleen Lord, Mrs. R. N. Stryker, president, presided during the meeting and Mrs. M. C. Barker had charge of the program.

Past presidents of the association were seated on the stage, also Miss May Cornwell, principal of Acacia school. Mrs. Stryker gave original toasts to each president. Past presidents are Mesdames Helen Todd, Mildred Waites, Percy Fraulix, Edward Strong, Gladys Esselman, W. B. Alexander, Arthur Wilson, L. D. Torrey and R. N. Stryker. Mrs. Gladys Esselman, who lives in New York, was the only one unable to be present. A letter, which she had written regarding the celebration, was read by Miss Cornwell. The association responded and told briefly of work accomplished during her regime. Each president and the school principal was presented with a piece of the birthday cake. A piece of the cake will be sent to Mrs. Esselman. Miss May Cornwell presented past presidents with bouquets of sweet peas, the presentation being made by Greta Stryker.

Colorado
Mrs. R. Ernest Tucker was elected president of Colorado P-T-A, at the meeting Thursday. Other officers chosen are: Mrs. Harold Parker, vice-president; Miss June Hamill, treasurer; Mrs. A. C. Penberthy, secretary; Mrs. E. S. McKee, auditor; Mrs. W. F. Rudolph, parliamentarian; Mrs. W. F. Parr, historian. The association voted to send Mrs. Parr, retiring president, and Mrs. Tucker to the state convention next week in Fresno. Mrs. Parr will be unable to attend, but Mrs. Tucker will leave for the north Tuesday. Plans were discussed for a May festival, Friday, May 15 at the school. There will be a Maypole and program by the pupils.

The first electric railroad in India, which was opened last February, will be extended at a cost of 23,000,000 rupees.

Inventor

JOHN A. SPENCER, whose desire to save himself some work, resulted in inventing several articles which have netted him millions.

REVERE, Mass., May 9.—

Because John A. Spencer remembered a way he used to save himself work when he was a boy, he is a potential millionaire today. When the youthful Mr. Spencer was younger, about 15 to be exact, he tended the boiler in a Maine lumber camp. The door of the boiler had a curved front, and John noticed that when the stove was hot, the door bulged inward, and on cooling, snapped back out. In time he made use of the information. To keep himself posted as to when the stove needed refiring, without having to get up and go to it, he put a log against the door while it was hot; then, when the door cooled and snapped out, it pushed over the log.

And now again Spencer has made use of this information. He has invented a thermostat which regulates the temperature of electrical apparatus automatically. The Westinghouse electric concern thinks so much of the invention that it has acquired the American rights under an arrangement that is expected to make Spencer a millionaire.

'WILD' LEATHERS FOR SMART SHOES

Women Just Can't Make Feet Behave In Variety Of Colors Employed

By AILEEN LAMONT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, May 9.—No wonder jazz is popular. No woman could possibly make her feet behave when they are clad in the wild leathers which fashion now dictates. As in jazz, the blues are not forgotten. Ensemble leathers, or those composed of wild splashes of color, are being used in conjunction with black patent leather, for heels and counters. The short rounded toe and the heel of medium height are features of the latest models in footwear.

No woman can be blamed for making the most of her good points, and the French designers are making the most of theirs. Many of their newest gowns have the skirts formed of a series of points overlapping one above the other. These usually are outlined or embroidered in crystal beads or rhinestones. The gowns frequently are worn over slips of a contrasting shade.

Zip the Zipper
The zipper fastening which started out on tobacco pouches and passed to golf and travelling bags, galoshes and dresses, now have been utilized on gloves. The newest of the fairly long, loose cuff hand coverings are fastened with the zipper clasp, which makes it unnecessary to fumble with buttons or refractory clasps.

The English have adopted the eye shade worn by Helen Wills, the American woman tennis champion, while abroad, and made a hat of it. That is they have taken the band with its wide visor and supplemented it with a series of straps passing over the top of the head so that the visor cannot fall too low over the eyes.

For a June Bride
The wedding dress of one of the prospective June brides has departed from the conventional white in favor of silver. The material is silver crepe morocaine. The front of the skirt which is quite short is trimmed with chiffon points. The train also is of chiffon with a double pleat down its entire length. The veil is of silver tulle, caught at either side of the head by a bunch of orange blossoms.

All the pictures were not confined to those in frames on the walls at the opening of the Royal Academy in London today. The fact that King George and Queen Mary were scheduled to be present attracted society in droves, according to cable advices, and the occasion furnished the first real opportunity for exhibitions of spring finery. The large hats predominated and ostich plumes formed the favorite trimmings. Hand painted satin dresses also were in evidence.

HISTORIC FLAG
In Smithsonian Institution at Washington is the American flag that inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner."

Council Minutes

Minutes of the Glendale City Council, Prepared by City Clerk

Following are the minutes of the City Council, in session May 7, 1925, as compiled by the city clerk:

The council assembled at 10 o'clock a. m. All members present. Minutes of May 5 read and approved.

Maps Adopted
Councilman Kinch introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution adopting map of tract No. 6409, and accepting on behalf of the public the avenue, the streets and public places shown thereon," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Tower, the same was numbered resolution No. 2830 and adopted.

Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Tower, that map of tract No. 8802, same being outside the city, be approved. Duly carried.

Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Tower, that map of tract No. 6976, same being outside the city, be approved. Duly carried.

Moved by Councilman Tower, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that map of tract No. 8827, same being outside the city, be approved. Duly carried.

Tract No. 8649
Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Hatz, that approval of map of tract No. 8649 be continued for one week. Duly carried.

Continued Hearings
Clerk informed the council that this was the time for continued hearing, when all persons interested might appear and state their objections, if any, against any action of the council of the city of Glendale to determine the aggregate amount of unpaid assessments for the improvement of Central avenue and other streets in said city, as more particularly described in resolution of intention No. 431, passed by the said council on the 15th day of June, 1924, providing for the issuance of bonds therefor, and prescribing their denomination; the clerk also reported to the council that he had not received any written protests or objections up to the time set for the hearing. Whereupon the mayor asked if there were any interested persons present who desired to be heard, and Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Bond, property owners in the district, addressed the council protesting assessments as levied against their property, and other interested persons having been given full opportunity to show cause why said bonds should not be issued in accordance with the determination of the council, and all objections having been heard and considered, on motion of Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Tower, duly carried, all protests were denied. Whereupon Councilman Tower introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the council of the city of Glendale, California, relating to the issuance of street improvement bonds pursuant to resolution of intention No. 2431, determining the amount of unpaid assessments, prescribing the denomination of said bonds, and providing for their issuance," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Kinch, the same was numbered resolution No. 2831 and adopted.

Widening Maryland
Clerk notified the council that this was the time, hour and place fixed for continued hearing of protests or objections to the assessment for the widening and extending of Maryland avenue as more particularly described in ordinance of intention No. 553, and the clerk reported that he had received written protests or objections, signed by Geo. H. Warren and others. Whereupon the mayor asked if there were any interested persons present who desired to be heard, and no one was present, having been given full opportunity to show cause why the proposed assessment should not be carried out in accordance with the diagram exhibiting the district to be assessed for said opening and widening, and all objections having been heard and considered, on motion of Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Tower, duly carried, the council found that protests were not signed by the owners of a majority of the frontage of the property fronting on streets or parts of streets within the assessment district, and all protests were denied.

Erection of Fence
Moved by Councilman Tower, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that application for permit to construct a concrete and lattice fence on property line on Louise, Elk and Lomita, be continued for one week.

Marbelite Company
Mr. Clark, representing the Marbelite Standard Co., addressed the council inviting them to visit the factory. Matter referred to the committee of the whole.

Memorial Day Parade
Moved by Councilman Tower, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that the council take part in Memorial Day parade. Carried.

Monrovia Fiesta
Moved by Councilman Tower, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that invitation of the Monrovia fiesta to take part in parade, be referred to the committee of the whole.

First Class District
Petition signed by property owners, asking that Campbell street from Dryden street north to city boundary be set aside as a first class residential district, was read.

Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that city clerk be instructed to set necessary date of hearing before the planning commission on May 18 and before the council May 21.

Remove From First Class
Petition signed by property owners, asking that Jackson street from California south to Wilson school grounds be removed from first class district, established by ordinance No. 777, was read.

Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that city clerk be instructed to set the necessary date of hearing before the planning commission on May 18 and before the council May 21.

Set Back Line
Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Tower, that application for five foot set back line on Jackson street between California and Wilson be referred to the planning commission.

Improvement of Lake Street
Petition, signed by property owners, asking that Lake street be improved, was read.

Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that city clerk be instructed to draft the necessary proceedings for the installation of sewer laterals to take care of laundries, and Patterson park plunge.

Arden Avenue District
Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Hatz, that city attorney and city engineer be instructed to draft the necessary proceedings for the installation of sewer laterals to take care of laundries, and Patterson park plunge.

Improve Colorado Street
Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that proceedings for the improvement of Colorado street, east to west city limits be carried out, omitting therefrom any property where there were no easements given. Carried.

Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Tower, that the matter of receiving bids for the installation of light standards on Colorado street, before proceedings were read, be referred to the committee of the whole.

Resolutions
Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Hatz, that resolution adopting specifications No. 35, for the construction of a pavement having a Portland cement concrete base and an asphaltic concrete wearing surface, be referred to the committee of the whole.

Moved by Councilman Hatz, seconded by Councilman Tower, that resolution, adopting plans, plats and profiles for the improvement of Sacramento road, be continued for two weeks. Duly carried.

Resolutions Adopted
Councilman Tower introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the City Council of the city of Glendale determining that the public interest and necessity demand the acquisition by the city of a certain municipal improvement, the cost of which will be too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of said city," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Kinch, the same was numbered resolution No. 2832 and adopted.

Councilman Kinch introduced a resolution entitled, "A resolution of the council of the city of Glendale adopting specifications No. 94 for moving ornamental street lighting standards and equipment in the city of Glendale," which was read, and on his motion seconded by Councilman Kinch, the same was numbered resolution No. 2833 and adopted.

Ordinances Offered
Councilman Kinch introduced an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance ordering the holding of a special municipal election for the city of Glendale on the 16th day of June, 1925, and submitting to the qualified voters of said city a proposition of incurring indebtedness and issuing bonds therefor," which was read and laid on the table.

Councilman Kinch introduced an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance amending ordinance No. 529, passed January 2, 1922, and entitled, "An ordinance of the city of Glendale establishing a residential district, an industrial district, and four commercial districts in said city; regulating and restricting the location and locations of and the maintenance and carrying on of industries, trades and businesses in said city; providing for a 'residential, industrial and commercial district map' of said city; prescribing the penalty for the violation hereof; and repealing certain ordinances," by adding thereto a new section to be numbered section 44a36," which was read and laid on the table.

Councilman Tower introduced an ordinance entitled, "An ordinance authorizing the conveyance to Harry H. Spaulding of all the right, title and interest of the city of Glendale to certain real property in the city of Glendale," which was read and laid on the table.

Moved by Councilman Kinch, seconded by Councilman Kinch, that city clerk be instructed to set necessary date of hearing before the planning commission on May 18 and before the council May 21.

'Acid Thrower' Makes Motion For New Trial
LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Motion for a new trial for Grace Bernice Day, youthful bride convicted recently of an acid attack upon her husband, Darby Day, Jr., son of a wealthy Chicago family, was filed today, and set for argument Monday morning.

John L. Richardson, a new attorney for Mrs. Day, requested Judge Hardy to delay sentence of his client until Monday, in order to give him an opportunity to familiarize himself with the case. The request was granted.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Europe has passed the United States in the rate of development of water power.

Enters Race

KATHERINE MACGREGOR, caught by the camera in one of those rare moments when she wasn't on the move.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Katherine MacGregor, the first white woman to cross the Andes from Peru, who scaled the heights of Mt. Mauna Kea in the Pacific, and survived the Japanese earthquake, is off on another adventure. She is going calling on head-hunters! Katherine, youthful and pretty, is the most envied woman I know of. Such nerve! Such independence!

She is on her way to Colombia, where she will venture into the jungles in a canoe in an attempt to reach the Macas settlement and head-hunters' colony in Ecuador. No white woman has ever been there.

Miss MacGregor plans to go up the Magdalena river to the jungle. Later she intends to visit the Macas settlement and study the customs before invading the land of the Jivaro Indians, head-hunters. After visiting the Jivaro's camps she will go into the Madre de Dios country, crossing the wilderness and following one of the tributaries of the Amazon river.

She hopes to meet in the jungle the South American tiger, and to bring back with her specimens of snakes, monkeys and birds of brilliant plumage. In her outfit for this expedition, she has included a rifle, moving picture camera and camera. She will write a series of articles and a book on her adventures. She will collect musical instruments and curios for museums.

Houghton First Trade Diplomat
Ambassador to Great Britain And Glass Manufacturer Has Europe Gasping

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Mr. Alanson Bigelow Houghton, whose Pilgrim dinner speech in London, has got all Europe sitting up and taking notice today, is one of the very few business men in American diplomacy. Mr. Houghton's ambassadorial calibre first was discovered by President Harding. It was pondered by President Coolidge and was not found wanting. Mr. Harding gave Mr. Houghton the difficult task of being the post-war ambassador to Germany. Mr. Coolidge has given him the prize post in the service—the Court of St. James. And he has begun his tour of duty with a few plain words which are little short of a sensation.

American ambassadors to London always are introduced to the British public—and often to their own public at home—at a Pilgrims' dinner, that revered organization of Americans resident in England. These dinners always are marked by the good old "hats-across-the-sea" stuff, and always the ambassador has a message. Colonel George Harvey, when he was introduced, told Europe that the United States would never have anything to do with the league of nations. Frank Kellogg, now secretary of state, was suave diplomatic, but Ambassador Houghton, in true business style, has told Europe that he is good if it wants to be happy and continue to merit the support of the United States—the richest nation of all the nations.

Lifted From Congress
President Harding lifted Alanson Houghton out of Congress to make him an ambassador. In the house of representatives the rich glass manufacturer, of Corning, N. Y., was simply hiding his light under a bushel, under several bushels in fact, for as a light hider the house of representatives is without a peer in all the world. Still the light was struggling.

He had attained membership first on the committee on foreign affairs—a step toward foreign service—and then on the committee on ways and means. Presided over at the time by the good "Nick" Longworth, new papa, and new speaker. These committee assignments were rather nifty for a new member, but the political leaders in Congress knew Mr. Houghton even if Washington in general was inclined to be indifferent to his presence at the capitol, as Washington must be indifferent, because there are so many congressmen, by and large.

Merchant Diplomat
At the court of St. James, Alanson Houghton, the business man, follows a long line of lawyers and editors and publicists. He is the most envied woman I know of. Such nerve! Such independence!

She is on her way to Colombia, where she will venture into the jungles in a canoe in an attempt to reach the Macas settlement and head-hunters' colony in Ecuador. No white woman has ever been there.

In her outfit for this expedition, she has included a rifle, moving picture camera and camera. She will write a series of articles and a book on her adventures. She will collect musical instruments and curios for museums.

Claims 62 Years
Mr. Houghton is a New Yorker by way of Cambridge, Mass., where he was born a little more than sixty-two years ago. No one would ever guess his age so high. In appearance he is much younger. He has kindly eyes that peer through George Harvey's shell-rim glasses. The British never can quite accuse themselves to these glasses. Mr. Houghton's features are clear cut. His firm chin is tempered by evidence of high good humor about the mouth.

When 26 years of age Mr. Houghton began the manufacture of glass in Corning. In due time he became president and then chairman of the board of the exclusive Corning glass works and is rated today as one of the big business men of the country. He is a graduate of Harvard, an accomplished speaker, a man of intellectual power. He always has taken a keen interest in education and is trustee of seven colleges, as well as president of the board of religious education of Western New York.

No Knee Breeches
It was not until late in life that Alanson Houghton took an interest in politics, but he is a good one. He came home from Berlin during the last campaign and stumped for Coolidge in the districts where the German vote was at stake. Mr. Houghton knew George Harvey brought a message about the Dawes plan. The vote in the German districts revealed him as a successful campaigner.

Mr. Houghton has not yet fallen for the silk knee breeches. So far he has stuck to plain American evening clothes. But the portrait painters haven't got him yet. Wait and see.

HARBOR TRADE RENTAL COSTS OUT OF L. A. INCREASES SURVEYED BY REALTORS

More Than 1000 Firms Aid Foreign Trade During Past Five Years

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Exports through Los Angeles harbor during the past year, amounting to approximately $87,500,000, were about double the exports during the year before and were 70 times the export figures of 1914, ten years ago, according to Southern California Business, the official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Commenting further, the magazine says:

Los Angeles is just now beginning to capitalize in a big way on the foundations that have been laid in years past in harbor building and the development of shipping. What is true of Los Angeles is equally true of all Southern California and the South-west, for Los Angeles harbor while paid for by Los Angeles and the federal government really belongs to the people and especially the industries and shippers of the southwest who now make use of it, or who in the years to come may make use of it.

Twelve Ship Lines
"While five years ago not more than a score of Southern California firms were engaged in foreign trade, during the past year it is safe to estimate that not less than 1200 firms of this section made shipments to or from foreign countries through the port of Los Angeles."

"Twelve new steamship lines have begun to make Los Angeles a port of call within the last year and six new services have been added by existing lines. This makes a total of 131 different steamship companies now entering the port with 146 different services. Of these there are fifty companies with seventy-one services in the general cargo trade, forty oil tank lines, and there are thirty-five lumber carriers. More than 700 ships are listed as making Los Angeles a port of call."

During the past year there were 5798 arrivals of deep sea commerce vessels at the port, totaling 15,348,828 net tons.

It is a great hit with the Englishmen, for they are fully interested in trade at this moment. They are particularly interested in seeing what Germany is going to do shortly in the marts of trade, and Mr. Houghton, business man and ambassador, is just fresh from Berlin. He knows the German situation better than the so-called trained diplomats and there is no question but that he will be a power for good in London as a sort of unofficial mediator between Berlin and the British capital.

Mr. Houghton was happy in Berlin but he will be happier in London. Some persons said he was pro-German in Berlin. That was because he had a high understanding of the German people and their problems. Probably they will say he is pro-British in London, because he likes British ways and customs, and above all, he likes the English tailors. When in Berlin he always went to London for his clothes. Now Bond Street is his tailor.

Findings of the survey will be published about June 1.

FROM EAGLE ROCK
EAGLE ROCK, May 9.—April building permits in Eagle Rock totaled $340,771, against a total of $243,431 for March, according to figures compiled by O. Phillips, building inspector of this section of Los Angeles. The March figures show an increase of $198,499 over the same month a year ago.

Members of the Eagle Rock post of the American Legion will stage the first annual mercantile exposition June 1 to 6. A tent 110 by 195 feet has been obtained, covering a floor space of 20,000 square feet. There will be forty exhibit booths and a 200-foot automobile section, with a stage and band stand.

Next Thursday will be "save the redwoods" day at the Women's Twentieth Century club. The luncheon speaker will be Rev. G. Bromley Oxnam, pastor of the Church of All Nations, Los Angeles. He will talk on law enforcement.

H. G. Warren, president of the Eagle Rock Realty board, and O. F. Kroehle, vice-president, were guests at the banquet given by the Wilmington branch of the Los Angeles Realty board. Warren was one of the speakers.

RADIO PLAYS BIG LIGHTHOUSE ROLE

Twelve Fog Signal Stations
Now in Operation by United States

By ROBERT MACK

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—With the establishment of a radio station at the Five Fathom light ship, off the Jersey coast, the United States government now has twelve fog signal stations in operation. Sixteen other stations under construction will be completed within the next six months, it was announced today by George R. Putnam, commissioner of light-houses.

When all the new plants begin operation, Mr. Putnam said, the United States will have more fog signal stations than the rest of the world combined. Seven of the new stations are being placed on the Great Lakes, two on the Gulf of Mexico, five on the Pacific coast, one in Alaska and an additional station on the Atlantic seaboard, at Portland Light.

Rapid development has been made in the use of the radio fog signals during the past six months, according to Commissioner Putnam. A recent instance of the effectiveness of the system, he explained, was shown in the Rai-fuku Maru disaster, when the location of the sinking Japanese ship was determined by the liner Homeric through the use of the radio compass.

Tube Sets Substituted

With the growth of the light house signal station system, arrangements have been made to replace all of the present spark transmitters with tube sets, thus eliminating any interference with other forms of wireless communication. Although a wave band around 1000 meters has been set aside for the use of the light house stations, some interference has been noted from the operation of the present transmitters. So far a C. W. transmitter has been placed only in the station at the Ambrose Light Ship.

Along with the development of the fog signal station system, a large increase has been noted in the past six months in the number of ships provided with radio compasses. Today approximately 400 ships are so equipped, in comparison with 291 six months ago.

New Radio Stent

Radio, having been lent to a hundred or more trick uses, has been assigned the job in Germany of detecting thieves who attempt to carry precious metals with them from the German mines and factories. According to a report made to the department of commerce, an invention for this purpose is being used effectively in many industrial plants. A small gate has been built through which every workman must pass, an electrical field is maintained about the exit with a small tube transmitter. Any metallic conductors brought into this magnetic field will react on the generator. The tube transmitter is tuned to an audible frequency by means of a heterodyne tube and thus any metal in the pockets of the workmen brought into this field will immediately change the pitch of the audible beat note.

A system for the joint operation by the government and the radio amateurs is being worked out for the Norwegian broadcasting stations at conferences of the amateurs' representatives and Norwegian government officials. Entertainment for the rural districts, where there are few theatres and moving picture shows will be maintained by the government stations.

Postal Receipts Jump Following New Rates

WASHINGTON, May 9.—An indication of the volume of business to be produced by the new postal rates, was shown in the receipts of fifty industrial cities during April, which totaled $3,108,131, as compared with $2,818,070 for the corresponding month of last year, according to figures made public by the postoffice department. Springfield, Ohio, with a percentage of 48.3, showed the greatest increase.

RUSH BUILDING ON BRIDGE IN ATWATER

Last Concrete Pier for New Span Over
Los Angeles River Poured; Light
Standards Are Undecided

The last concrete pier for the new Los Feliz boulevard bridge was poured yesterday, ending a long siege of trouble caused by rains and sand slides that threatened for a while to hold up completion of the structure.

Structural iron frames for the roadbed will be built next, reaching from pier to pier. The bridge will be completed and ready for use within sixty days, according to Joseph Kelly, contractor. The new bridge has been built many feet higher than the old wooden span that formerly served to cross the river. This is to permit the passage of the proposed truck highway underneath, Mr. Kelly said. When the truck road is built it will pass directly under the bridge.

Approaches on either side of the bridge will be straightened, eliminating the present curves in the road. This work will be done in connection with the widening and repaving of the entire boulevard as far as the Glendale city limits.

New ornamental street lights, either concrete standards or pressed steel shafts, will be installed. Some controversy over whether pressed steel standards matching those along Los Feliz boulevard in Glendale, or concrete poles similar to the ones running along Los Feliz boulevard from the river to Vermont avenue, has arisen. Provisions have been made for lighting the bridge with highly ornamental standards.

Improvement Body to Meet

The Atwater Community Improvement association will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting at the Neighborhood Christian church Monday night at 8 o'clock. Prior to the meeting the executive officers of the association will hold an executive session starting at 7 o'clock. Plans for the proposed Boy Scout clubhouse and other matters will be discussed.

District Building Notes

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rerlady, 3826 Seneca avenue, will shortly move to their newly-purchased home in Oakridge, Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Potter will will soon occupy their new four-room stucco bungalow on Dover place.

Z. R. Kaplin today announced the purchase of sixty feet of property fronting on Glenfeliz boulevard, just off Los Feliz, from William E. Wilson.

Carl Christianson, Atwater contractor, will spend some time in San Bernardino, where he will build a number of houses, now under contract.

J. R. Wilson, who opened a new boulevard fudge stand on Los Feliz several months ago, announced that he will establish seven more stands in various parts of the city.

Baptist Church Services

Mothers' Day will be observed at the morning service at the Atwater Baptist church tomorrow. Rev. M. Grant Nelson, pastor, will preach in the morning on "His Mother and Mine." At night Rev. Nelson will give his concluding sermon on "The Best Use of Life."

RADIO EXPORT TO JAPAN INCREASES

Trade Statistics Show Jump
During March, Orient
Second In Buys

By ROBERT T. SMALL

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A jump in radio exports from the United States to Japan during March was disclosed in a summary of trade statistics made public today by the department of commerce. From a position as the fifth largest buyer of American radio goods in January, and the eighth largest buyer in February, Japan climbed to second place during March, just behind Canada, for many months the biggest customer in America's international market of radio apparatus.

Japan's March bill of goods amounted to $94,032, as compared with that of Canada's which totaled $119,767. Japan's previous purchases this year had amounted to $27,765 in January and $19,789 in February.

Much of the radio supplies included in the March purchases in Japan consisted of superheterodyne receivers, spare tubes and transmitting apparatus. Because of government restrictions, it is unlawful to import regenerative sets into Nippon. The superheterodyne, therefore, has become the favored type of receiver, although its price is a little too high for the average Japanese radio fan.

Big Improvement

Coincident with the increase in radio exports to the Far East, the international radio business generally showed a decided improvement during March, climbing from a total of $477,591 in February to $604,769. These figures were both lower than the record set in January when exports amounted to $784,619. Australia with imports of $64,230 dropped to third place in the United States markets while Spain was fifth with $41,932. The United Kingdom was sixth with $35,948, and Mexico seventh with $21,941.

The short wave transmitter is not to receive all of whatever radio glory is to be achieved this summer by the MacMillan expedition into the Far North. Naval radio engineers and radio experts who will make the trip with Commander MacMillan, have decided to take low frequency, high powered spark sets, of the model used by naval air craft, on the voyage to supplement the work that is to be done on the high frequency transmission tests. In this way it is hoped that continuous communication, either on the high or the low wave lengths may be maintained with the United States. Although one of the stoutest defenders of the short wave,
